Millionaires Raised Campaign Fund of Pepper

Chairman of Pepper Finance Committee Says He Put on the Committee Everybody He Thought Good for a Thousand—Democrats Will Make Pennsylvania Election a National Issue.

Washington, June 12.—A carefully selected committee of millionaires raised the campaign fund of Senator George Wharton Pepper in Pennsylvania's recent senatorial primary, Robert Glendenning, state chairman of the Pepper finance committee, told the senate "slush fund" committee today.

The finance committee, Glendenning said, was composed only of men who "could give $1,000" without missing it. The committee, under this arrangement was composed of "thirty or forty" of the richest men in Pennsylvania.

"Everybody I thought as good for a $1,000 I put on the committee," Glendenning, a Philadelphia banker, said.

"How many did you get?" asked Senator Reed (D.), of Missouri.

"Thirty or forty, I had no limit in my mind."

"You thought the more people you put on the committee the more money you would get?"

"Yes."

The committee included among other millionaires, Edward W. Bok, donor of the Bok Peace Prize, Sidney T. Brock, banker, Charles J. Webb, woolen manufacturer, Charlton Yarnell, capitalist, J. Leonard Replogle, steel king, Edward B. Robinette, banker, E. W. Clark, banker, W. S. Ellis, capitalist, and John H. Browning, manufacturer.

Bok gave $2,000 to the fund, the witness added, but asked later that his name be taken off the committee. The committee functioned out of Philadelphia late in 1925, five months before the primary and several months before Pepper had even announced himself as a candidate for re-election. He raised "between $40,000 and $50,000" by December 27, 1925, when he left Philadelphia for a vacation trip in Europe.

Pinchot Paid 408 Watchers.

Before Glendenning took the stand, the committee announced that subpoenas had been issued for Vernon Taylor, of Indiana county, Pa., and Thomas F. Watson of Philadelphia. Taylor was called to tell about Pepper expenditures in western Penna., while Watson was chairman of the Republican Citizens' Committee of Philadelphia and state treasurer of the Vare Campaign.

T. Henry Walnut, chairman of Pinchot's Philadelphia Committee, told of conducting the Governor's campaign in that city. He said the disbursements were $24,171.59 for the headquarters hire of speakers and watchers at the polls.

Walnut filed a statement setting forth these financial details and it showed that the committee had $4,192.35 in the bank now—an apparent surplus— and $33.07 "cash on hand."

Walnut said Pinchot had paid only 408 watchers in Philadelphia, as compared to the 9,000 watchers employed by the Pepper forces.

"We had 1,600 watchers certificates as receipts for their payments."

"Did any leaders turn back any money?"

"Yes, to our surprise, they did," said Walnut. "That is why our accounts show a balance of $4,192."

Walnut said that only "between $400 and $500," was raised by Pinchot's Philadelphia Committee to help finance his campaign.

Issue For Democrats.

The "million-dollar" Pennsylvania senatorial campaign will be used by the Democrats to revive the issue of "Newberryism" in the November elections, it was learned today, as the senate's "slush fund" committee resumed its inquiry into the costliest election in American history.

Democratic leaders revealed they would make the Pennsylvania election a national issue, because it so closely involved the Coolidge administration and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. They feel that the expenditure of approximately $1,425,000 by three candidates—so far revealed—by the slush fund investigation—has the proportions o a "national scandal." Newberry spent but $195,000, less than one-seventh of the amount already unearthed in Pennsylvania, and, even that amount was officially characterized by the senate as unmoral.

Voters in other states will be told this fall that they have a real interest in Pennsylvania elections, because a member of the senate legislates for the whole country and under its limited membership, is more a representative of all the people than a mere spokesman for his own electorate. The fact that Mellon supported Senator George Wharton Pepper, in whose behalf a fund of at least $1,044,295 was expended, only adds to the seriousness of their case, according to the belief of Democratic leaders.

Leaves Mother To Join Circus

Mrs. DeGroot of Ardonia Asks Poughkeepsie Police to Aid Her in Locating Her Son Who Disappeared After the Circus in That City.

The lure of the sawdust ring was too strong for Leon DeGroot of Ardonia, Ulster county, the Poughkeepsie police fear. Wednesday afternoon he accompanied his mother to the circus at Red Sox Park in Poughkeepsie, but in the crowd, after the big show, he disappeared. At the time his mother suspected nothing and returned home. When her son did not appear, however, she notified the police.

The young man cannot be arrested as he has arrived at his majority and is legally his own master, but even so his mother would give anything, she told the police, to learn his whereabouts.

They left their home early Wednesday morning, boarded a bus and went to Poughkeepsie. After lunch Mrs. DeGroot shopped in the stores and her son accompanied her. Their visit to the circus had been long planned and they were among the first to take seats in the big tent. Leon did not talk much during the afternoon and his mother noticed his abstracted air. They left the tent and with the crowd started toward the trolley car in Parker avenue. He slipped away and was lost in the crowd and it is supposed that he waited about the circus grounds, asked for work and was hired. At any rate, he failed to return home.

The police told Mrs. DeGroot they will keep a close watch in the city for her son. The circus can easily be traced and this will probably be done. Mrs. DeGroot has taken the case to the Ulster county officials and the state police.

Newspapers at Buffalo Merge

Buffalo, N. Y., June 12.—One of the largest newspaper mergers in the journalistic annals of New York State was made public today when the Buffalo Courier, Inc., and the J. N. Matthews Company, the latter, publishers of the Buffalo Morning and Sunday Express, announced that the Buffalo Morning and Sunday Courier and the Buffalo Morning and Sunday Express, have combined.

The first issue of the merged publications to appear Monday morning, June 14, on and after that date the combined paper will be published daily under the caption, the Courier and Express, from the Buffalo Courier plant, 250 Main street. The executive personnel of the new organization consists of the following: Chairman, William J. Conners, Sr.; president, Burrows Matthews; vice-president, William J. Conners, Jr.; editor, Burrows Matthews; publisher, William J. Conners, Jr.; secretary, Frank J. Clancy; treasurer, William S. Bennett; managing edior, John D. Wells.

Reports Reade May Sell Theatres

"Variety," the leading weekly newspaper devoted to vaudeville, moving pictures and theatrical news in general, printed in New York publishes the following in its issue of June 9:

Reports of overtures made to Walter Reade to purchase his circuit of 32 theatres of varying policies, mostly pictures, are related with much circumstantiality. It is said that Mr. Reade will only sell in bulk, and also include his interests in theatres held in partnership with Keith-Albee.

The Reade houses in the main are in New Jersey, with his single New York City theatre, Savoy, on West 34th street.

Asked about the reports Mr. Reade would make no committal. In response to a question as to what he had in mind if disposing of all of his theatrical properties, he answered, "real estate."

Killed in Grade Crossing Crash

Cohoes, N. Y., June 12.—Miss Dora Auger, 30, of 193 Saratoga street, this city, is dead today, and her sister, Josephine, 26, in dying as the result of an automobile-locomotive crash here last night.

A third sister, Eva, 22, who was riding in the machine which was being operated by Dora, escaped with minor injuries.

The accident occurred at the railroad crossing at Newark and Hamson streets, this city. Miss Auger drove her car on the tracks directly in front of the locomotive, witnesses told the authorities.

ONE YEAR ENLISTMENTS FOR PLATTSBURG BARRACKS.

Corporal John H. Lowther in charge of the U. S. Army recruiting office, received instructions today from Albany headquarters to accept qualified men for a one year enlistment for the 26th Infantry, which is stationed at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y. All other enlistments are for a period of three years.

Probing School Liquor Scandal

Students at Cambridge Latin School Tell of Synthetic Gin Being Passed in Cloak Rooms—"Revelations" Followed Junior Prom.

Cambridge, Mass., June 12.—Amazing revelations regarding the alleged sale of synthetic gin by five boy bootleggers in the cloak rooms of Cambridge Latin School were under a rigid probe today by Mayor Edward W. Quinn.

The chief executive summoned to his office officials of the high school to demand an explanation of alleged conditions.

Superintendent of Schools Michael E. Fitzgerald stated that he had heard rumors of liquors being sold in the schools, that he had detectives and teachers on the watch but without success in securing evidence against anyone.

"I cannot believe that it is true but as mayor and chairman of the school committee I shall have the officials of that school in my office for an explanation of these alleged conditions," said Mayor Quinn.

The "revelations" regarding the passing of bottles in the school corridors and cloakrooms—the price of the gin being $2 a quart—were an aftermath of a wild party by students of the school and others following the annual junior "prom." Well supplied with liquor the party of boys and girls went to Nantasket Beach, broke into a cottage, started a fight and were sent home by police after two youths were arrested. In Hingham court their cases were placed on file.

The synthetic gin is bootlegged, according to statements made by students to reporters, by five boy students, who work on a commission basis. As a rule orders are taken in advance, but if any student desires liquor at once it can be obtained from the hip pocket of some of the runners.

Some reports made by students were to the effect that upon occasions students have entered the class rooms slightly under the influence of liquor.

Federal authorities, it was learned, will join with the city authorities in probing the alleged conditions.

"For the past two years," said Superintendent Fitzgerald, "we have been on the watch because of these rumors. For a month we trailed one suspect. But we never got anything on him. This is the first time I have ever heard the direct charge made that there has been liquor in the schools. Those persons making the charges should come forward and give their information to the authorities. We will run the matter to the ground."

TWO SISTERS STRUCK BY AUTO AT SAUGERTIES

Miss Annie Gillen and Mrs. Mamie Keenan who reside on Livingston street, Saugerties, were struck by an automobile being driven by Earl Anderson, also of Livingston street, on Friday. Both women were knocked down and severely injured while crossing at the corner of Partition and Russell streets. Miss Gillen was thrown under the car and Mrs. Keenan was thrown to one side and as soon as the car could be brought to a stop was carried to the grocery store of Peter Cartright and Myers Bros. Pharmacy where a call for doctors brought Drs. Emerick and Krom. They found Miss Gillen was suffering from a broken collarbone and she was removed at once to the Deers Sanitarium. Mrs. Keenan was suffering from cuts and abrasions and also from the shock, and was removed to her home after being given medical attention.

U. & D. Summer Train Service

Additional Trains Provided for Through Service to and From Weehawken—New Method of Handling Baggage on Heavy Travel Days.

The summer schedule of through trains from New York via West Shore and Ulster and Delaware Railroads will be effective Sunday, June 27. In addition to last season's schedule, additional service for this season has been announced as follows:

The West Shore Railroad will add a fast train, No. 37, Friday evenings only, beginning first trip Friday, July 2, last trip Friday, September 3. This train will not carry baggage. Train 37 will leave Weehawken approximately 3 p. m., eastern standard time, arriving at Kingston approximately 5:20 p. m., eastern standard time. Time of arrival at U. & D. stations will be shown on time table effective June 27.

There will be an early Monday morning fast train which will be known as No. 32, first trip Monday, July 5, last trip Monday, September 6. This train will not carry baggage. Train 32 will leave Oneonta approximately 6 a. m., arriving at Kingston approximately 9.50 a. m., and at Weehawken approximately 12:30 p. m.

In addition to these changes, the Ulster & Delaware has also arranged with the West Shore Railroad for an earlier schedule of Train 35 arriving at Kingston, which will, of course, make an earlier arrival to stations on the line.

On Train 33, arrangements have been made to make several stations flag and non-stop. This applies also to Trains 34, 35 and 36. These changes will give more expeditious service and also more comfortable riding.

There will be parlor car service this year on both Trains 34 and 35. Train 38 on Sundays will carry parlor car equipment.

It is expected also to make some arrangements for handling baggage on heavy days other than on the passenger train on which the passenger travels. This will, of course, avoid delay to through trains.

The Ulster & Delaware is adding trains 37 and 32 at considerable expense and asks for the cooperation of the various Chambers of Commerce and hotel proprietors for sufficient patronage to cover this extra expense.

Score Injured in Electrical Storm

Forty Fires Doing Damage Estimated at Half a Million Reported In Severe Electrical Storm Which Swept Chicago.

Chicago, June 12.—Chicago today was taking toll of the damage wrought by the most severe electrical storm in recent years.

Twenty-two persons were injured, several seriously. Forty fires, most of them started by lightning, were reported. Damage from fire was estimated at $500,000.

The storm broke late in the day, following a light downpour of rain. The heavy clouds plunged the city into darkness in mid-afternoon, lightened only by the streaking flashes of lightning.

A score of persons on a crowded street car were injured when a bolt of lightning stripped off a side of the car and set the remainder on fire. Three passengers were trampled in the panic that ensued.

Nearly three inches of rain fell during the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock last night. Streets and cellars were flooded.

Eugene J. Nevens, a police officer, was hurled to the pavement by a bolt of lightning and sustained a fractured skull.

Traffic tie-ups were general. Thousands of automobiles were deserted in the streets when engulfed in the blinding storm.

Escape Injury When Autos Crash

Sheriff Herman S. Wells and Sergeant Cunningham went to a point on the Kingston-Highland state highway near the Colonel Payne estate at Esopus on Friday afternoon to investigate a collision between two automobiles. A Buick coupe from Yonkers with a man and woman as passengers and a Brooklyn Nash sedan containing four people had come together near the center of the road. They had been going in opposite directions. The Buick plunged into the stone wall along the Payne property and a cap was knocked into the wall through which it entered half its length and was considerably damaged. The occupants escaped from any injury. No one was hurt in the Nash which was only slightly damaged. John F Gorman was the driver of the Nash, and Max Gaechter was the driver of the Buick.

Rosendale Taxpayers' Association.

The next regular meeting of the Taxpayers' Association of Rosendale will be held Monday evening, June 14, at Firemen's Hall. Every property holder is invited to become a member of this organization.

Car Crashes Into Tree, Four Killed

Automobile Fails to Make Curve on Boston Post Road and Crashes Into Elm Tree, Resulting in Death of Four.

Guilford, Conn., June 12.—Three people were killed outright and a fourth died a few minutes after a car in which they were riding crashed into an elm tree just east of here this morning.

Two of the victims have been identified as Ethel Miller of Putnam street, and Mrs. Edwin R. Reeser, of Wall street, New Haevn.

The others, according to the authorities at Guilford, are believed to be William H. Cushing, of Brookline, Mass., Yale 1927; and George M. Koppel, of Galveston, Texas, Yale 1929. Papers in the clothing of the two men furnished identification, Guilford officials announced.

Identification of Cushing and Koppel was definitely announced by Dr. DeWitt Smith, medical examiner, as having been secured from drivers' licenses issued by the state and carried by the two youths.

The accident occurred east of the center here, directly opposite the home of Garrett M. Stack, deputy sheriff, and on a wide curve of the Boston Post Road. There were no actual witnesses to the collision. Sheriff Stack and his family were awakened by the grinding of car brakes, followed instantly by a crash.

Mr. and Mrs. Stack saw a car piled against a huge elm tree just off the curve and went to the aid of possible victims, while other members of the family telephoned for help.

Of four persons in the wreckage only one was alive. "I am Ethel Miller," she gasped. A few minutes later neighbors had taken the girl to Guilford Sanitorium where she was found to be dead. Her nose had been crushed.

The three killed outright had received head injuries also. Officials declared that apparently the four persons had been thrown head foremost against the tree. Ethel Miller's body had cleared the car but the bodies of the others were jammed into the wreckage so that much work was needed to extricate them.

Hundreds of persons from New Haven visited the scene of the wreck after daybreak and town officers were forced to improvise a traffic regulation system to control the curious. The wrecked car was left at the foot of the tree until Coroner Eli Mix might arrive though the bodies were removed to a local undertaker's morgue. A wide gash in the tree trunk with blood splashes above indicated where the car struck and where the bodies had been flung.

L. F. BANNON WILL RESIDE AT NO. 50 SPRING STREET

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bannon, who recently sold their property at 402 Broadway to the Kingston City Hospital, expect to remove to their property, 50 Spring street, as soon as the alterations they are making there are completed which they expect will be about October. The L. F. Bannon Company, however, will continue their business as usual at 402 Broadway until they secure a new location.

Garden Club Iris Exhibit.

The Ulster Garden Club is holding a remarkable fine and artistic exhibition of iris blooms in the show window of the Charles A Warren Sporting Goods Store on Fair street. While most of the iris flowers range from the most delicate lavender to a royal purple there are also yellows and gold, to name. Arranged with the iris are branches of early peonies, poppies, etc., in baskets and vases, while one vase of tall pink columbine is particularly lovely.

Former Kingston Boy Gets Honor

Cadet Frederick L. Anderson, Jr., class of 1928, United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., who formerly attended Kingston High School, who is a son of Frederick L. Anderson of 38 Williams street, Catskill, and was appointed to the academy by Representative Charles B. Ward of Liberty, from the 27th district, New York, was selected as a corporal in the announcement of new cadet officers published immediately after the graduation of the class of 1926 this morning. He left at once for his home where he will spend a two and a half months' furlough, the first and only long leave of absence granted to a cadet during his four years at the academy (there are short Christmas leaves except in the first year).

His selection as corporal (the only cadet rank open to members of his class) was based upon a consideration of his military, academic, and extra-curricular work during the past year. It is always a greatly desired appointment.

Furlough time is historic in the annals of West Point. First instituted in 1819, it is now granted to the members of each class at the end of their second year here. Every cadet looks forward to it from the day he enters. It marks a welcome relief from the strict discipline and the difficult academic work of the preceding two years; and it affords a chance to visit family and friends, many of whom have not been seen in two years.

Among his other accomplishments and credits may be mentioned the following Basketball squad, Cadet Chapel Sunday school teacher, Acting Corporal 1925, football B. squad, 1925, lacrosse A squad, 1926.

Bandits Kill Cashier and Girl

New York, June 12.—In a fruitless attempt to capture the $5,000 weekly payroll of the Sunglo Company, Inc., wholesale grocers and canners at their office here today, four armed bandits shot up the cashier's office on the second floor, killing the cashier and a girl stenographer and seriously wounding another young woman.

The cashier killed was Samuel Winterbottom and the stenographer was Josephine Di Fiori, twenty years old. The other victim is Elizabeth Schumacher. She was shot through the hip.

All three were taken to a hospital. Winterbottom and the Di Fiori girl died after they got there. The latter had been shot through the chest and Winterbottom through the head.

When the bandits entered the cashier's office on the second floor, with their revolvers drawn, Winterbottom pulled a pistol of his own from a handy drawer and opened fire without ado. There have been three holdups in this vicinity in the past two weeks and he was not waiting for any commands from the yeggs.

Believe Ponzis Are in Italy

Merrimac, N. H., June 12.—"If Charles Ponzi and his wife are not in Italy at the present time, I would be the most surprised person in the United States."

Robert Dean, landlord of a Motor Inn here, made this statement today.

Despite Ponzi's being reported last seen on June 3 by officers in the sheriff's office in Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Ponzi reported as seen by her neighbors in Boston, Mr. Dean is positive that the "financial wizard" and his wife passed the night of May 29 at his inn on their way to Montreal, where he believes they boarded a passenger liner.

Mr. Dean has known Ponzi personally in the past and says there can be no doubt as to his identification.

The man at his inn, said Mr. Dean today, impressed him as suffering from keen disappointment. The touring car he drove carried Connecticut registration plates.

B'way Crossing Public Hearing

The public service commission will hold a public hearing at Albany on Thursday afternoon, June 17, at 2 o'clock on the application of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad for permission to use the Broadway crossing in preference to the subway. The commission at the same time will hold a public hearing on the application of the New York Central Railroad for an order directing the removal of the frogs from the Broadway crossing. If the frogs are removed the trolley road will be unable to use the Broadway crossing for trolley service.

C. F. ASHLEY'S WELDING JOB ON THE CAPITAL CITY

C. F. Ashley of Henry street is busy with a welding contract on the steamer Capital City which is berthed at Haverstraw. Mr. Ashley uses a portable electric welder in his welding contracts and the machine was shipped to Haverstraw today.

Women Workers Still Leading Men in Drive

They Have Obtained Almost Twice as Many Subscriptions as the Men in Kingston City Hospital Building Fund Campaign and Lead In Amount by $11,000.

The local women workers of the Kingston City Hospital campaign force continue to lead the men both in the aggregate number and amount of subscriptions obtained to date in the campaign.

All told, 1,879 subscriptions amounting to $125,697 have been made in Kingston and it is interesting to note that each of the three reports made by the local teams has been for approximately the same amount, a little more than $40,000.

The one report of the allied towns divisions was nearly $30,000, and the grand total of the campaign to date is $155,371, more than one-half of the $300,000 fund sought.

Of the 1,879 Kingston subscriptions, the two divisions of women have obtained 1,201, the two divisions of men 614, and the three committees 64. Of the $125,697 subscribed in Kingston the women have to their credit $47,263, the men $36,238, and the committees $42,196.

Women Lead Both Ways.

Thus the women have obtained almost twice as many subscriptions as the men, and in amount are $11,000 in the lead. Mrs. Charles Tappen, chairman of the women's division, is justly proud of her workers.

Mrs. George Hutton's division of women workers leads the other three divisions in the amount obtained with a total of $25,625. Mrs. William Warren's division comes next with $21,638, and with 766 subscriptions it is more than 300 ahead of any other division.

Everett Fowler's division of men with a total of $20,761 is $5,000 ahead of John Hiltebrant's division in amount, but it has only half the number of subscriptions obtained by this latter division.

The Leading Teams.

In their respective positions, the leading five teams in the amount obtained are:

Team No.	Captain	Amount
27	Mrs. Frank Dewey	$14,590
1	C. V. A. Decker	8,486
2	Ward B. Everett	5,000
11	S. D. Hiltebrant	4,941
17	Mrs. George Burgevin	3,755

In their relative positions, the leading five teams in number of subscriptions obtained are:

Team No.	Captain.	No. Sub.
26	Mrs. Fred Snyder	122
18	Mrs. Herman I. DuBois	109
27	Mrs. Frank Dewey	104
17	Mrs George. Burgevin	87
31	Mrs. Sam Mann	82

Work By Committees.

The doctors' committee has obtained 46 subscriptions amounting to $14,911, the executive committee 17 subscriptions totalling $22,285, and the industries committee one for $5,000. This last commitee is necessarily held up waiting for board meetings to authorize the subscriptions of the various organizations.

A friendly spirit of rivalry has developed between the teams and divisions during the progress of the campaign and all workers are striving to bring their unit to the front. But all are primarily concerned with making the campaign a success as they realize the need of the total fund, and are redoubling their efforts so that the $300,000 goal may reached at the Victory Dinner on Tuesday night.

Van Keuren Contributes $2,000.

W. W. Van Keuren of Albany avenue gave a subscription of $2,000 to the hospital drive which was pledged through Team No. 2 of which Ward B. Everett is captain. When the pledge was announced at the noon rally on Friday at the armory it was greeted with such applause that at the reporters' table it sounded as though one thousand had been announced instead of the two thousand that Mr. Van Keuren had subscribed.

CORNELL HOSE TO HOLD A BLOCK PARTY JUNE 14

Cornell Hose Company is making arrangements for the block party to be held on Monday evening between Wurts and Hone streets on Abeel street. Jack Ernst's Imperial orchestra will furnish the music and the street will be artistically decorated and lighted for the affair. A concert will be rendered by the orchestra from 8 to 9 o'clock and refreshments will be on sale. If stormy the block party will be held the next fair evening.

CIVIL SERVICE TEST FOR TAILORING-INSTRUCTOR

The state civil service commission has announced an unwritten examination to be held not later than July 10 for instructor in tailoring. One immediate appointment is expected at the institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch. The position will pay a salary of from $1,400 to $1,900.

Esopus Strawberry Festival.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Esopus Methodist Church will hold a strawberry festival on the church lawn Wednesday evening, June 16, at 6 o'clock. There will be sandwiches and coffee, strawberry shortcake, ice cream and fancy cake on sale.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THANK-YOU'S COMPANION

Thank-You's companion used to go about with him a great deal.

"Thank You."

He was a good-natured creature, not particularly remarkable, and not particularly clever, but well-meaning and pleasant and nice.

Thank-You's companion was named "Don't-Mention-It."

You probably have often seen them together.

Or, at least, you have heard them when they have been holding one of their conversations.

Thank-You never speaks when the companion is along, too, without the companion adding his little name-speech to the talk.

They do not let their speeches be said by the same person. Each shows that he is a separate individual by each having a different person make his speech.

For instance you will hear one person say:

"Thank you."

And you will hear the other person say:

"Don't mention it."

Well, when you hear these two speeches, made by two different people, yet who are speaking together, you will know that Thank-You and Don't-Mention-It are around.

Thank-You will suggest to one person that he use his name, and Don't-Mention-It will suggest to the other that he answer by using his name.

Well, one day Thank-You and Don't-Mention-It were off having a little picnic together.

They each talked in the funniest way you can imagine. Whenever Thank-You took a sandwich or a glass of ginger ale or a piece of cake he would say to the sandwich or the glass of ginger ale or the piece of cake:

"Thank you."

Whenever Don't-Mention-It took a sandwich or a glass of ginger ale or a piece of cake, he would say to the sandwich or the glass of ginger ale or the piece of cake:

"Don't-Mention-It."

They were so in the habit of making these speeches they just talked that way to the food they were eating.

And instead of Don't-Mention-It thanking for what he was eating he never thanked anything or anyone but just said: "Don't mention it."

"Really," Don't-Mention-It said after they had finished the picnic, "I am a silly fellow and perhaps I'm not so polite after all.

"When you say 'thank you' I say 'don't mention it.'

"But I say it after you have mentioned it. I don't tell you ahead of time not to thank or not to bother about mentioning or speaking any thanks or appreciation.

"I say it afterward.

"I don't know that I'm very sensible or very polite."

"Oh, yes," said Thank-You, "that's all right. It's right for me to thank and it's right for you to say: 'Don't mention it.'

"Don't Mention It."

"For when you say that, it means that you accept my thanks but that you consider you should not accept too many thanks and that it was a pleasure to do for me.

"Oh, what you say is all right."

"Oh, very well," said Don't-Mention-It, "of course I'm at least well-meaning even if I'm not a brilliant fellow. You're so much finer a looking gnome-chap somehow."

"I don't know that I would say that," said Thank-You, "but thank you, just the same."

"Don't mention it," said Don't-Mention-It.

On the Wrong Side

Johnnie (to the new visitor)—So you are my grandma, are you?

Grandmother—Yes, Johnnie, I'm your grandma on your father's side.

Johnnie—Well, you're on the wrong side. You'll soon find that out.—Los Angeles Two Bells.

Thought Well of Jimmy

Jimmy's mother told him he must not go across the street to see the twins so often, as they would get tired of him. "What, tired of me?" said Jimmy. "I guess not. Why, they like me next to their bottle."

Dinner Interfered

Caller—Won't you walk with me as far as the street car, Tommy?

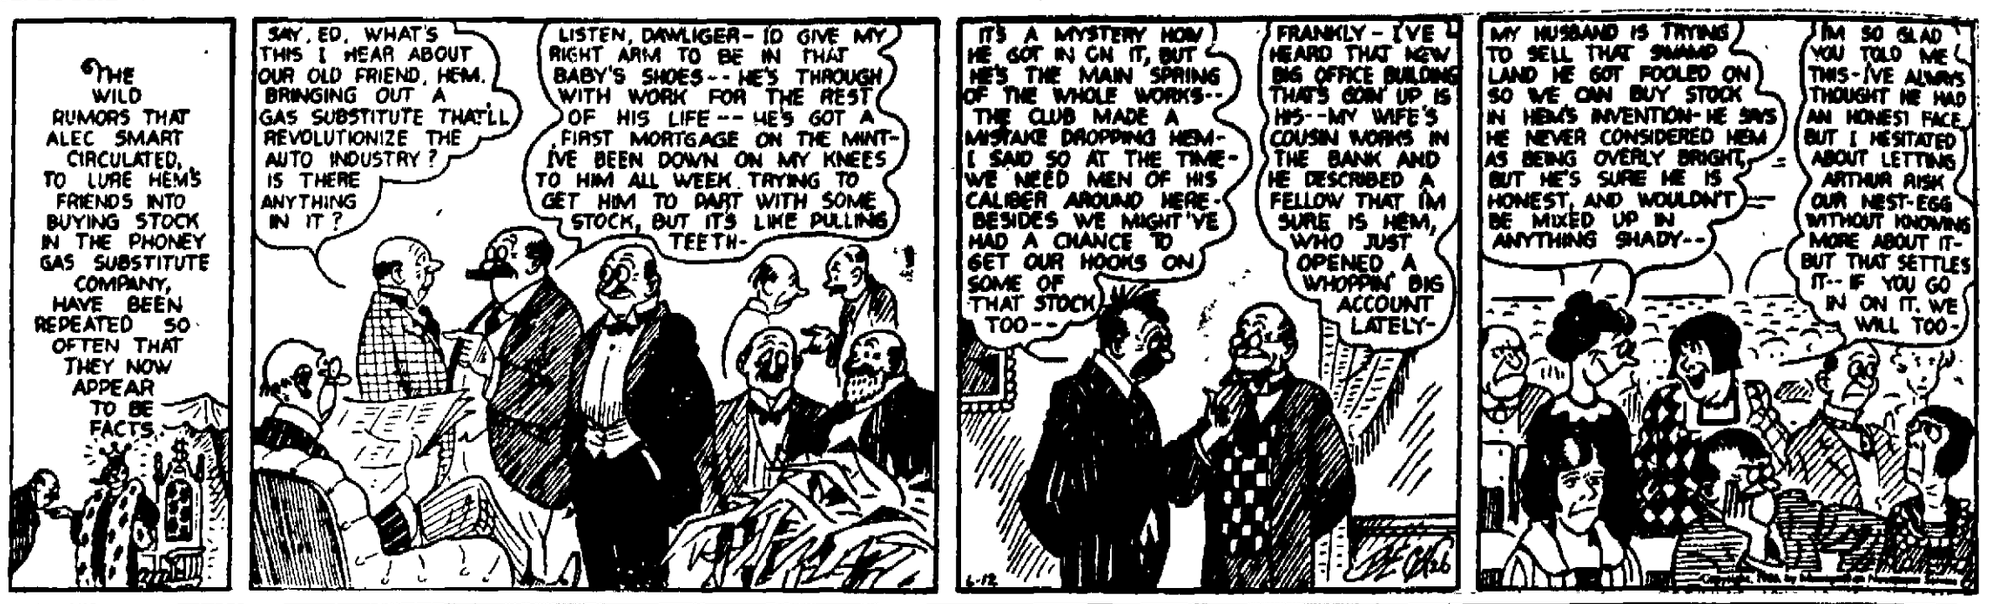

Tommy (aged seven)—I can't.

Caller—Why not?

Tommy—'Cos we're going to have dinner as soon as you go.

By Jimison

The second worst thing about bigamy is that you may be sent to jail for it.

A smile is a tonic; a frown is a disease.

All the world may love a lover, but a lover isn't wasting much time on all the world.

A young lady just had a new dancing frock made, and of course tried it on for her mother's inspection. Her mother criticized the back of the waist claiming it did not match the skirt.

"But mother, that isn't the waist, that's me," explained the daughter.

Even as Eve—The bride was gowned in white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves formed the decorations.

A woman dancing the Charleston broke her leg, but it is probable that nobody looking on noticed any difference in her dancing.

Your quizzical look so entrancing.
You're asking for something, I know.
But, lady! I can't keep on dancing
Unless you stop gazing up so.

Work your way up or rust your way out.

"What has become of that bad curve just outside of Pea Ridge?"

"The town did away with it."

"A good idea."

"Yes, it was cheaper to do that than to build a hospital."

Some things cannot be bought for love or money, but money will buy a lot of things that love can't.

"You say you've had your car three years and yet you can't Henry it?"

"It's been three months since I've seen it."

"Ah, in storage, eh?"

"No, my daughter has learned to drive."

He says: "And on a cold night like that she pulls all the covers up over herself, leaving me to freeze to death."

She says: "And with the thermometer below zero, I wake up shivering in the middle of the night and every last stitch of cover on him. If I catch pneumonia, there's him to thank."

Lots of flappers remind us of brown sugar—so sweet and unrefined.

You have to work to get heaven but you can find lots of folks waiting to give you hell.

No Morning, But Mourning.

"This booze is good,"
Said William Wood.
"There'll be no 'morning after,'"
With which report
He drank a quart.
Midst revelry and laughter.

Ah, say, it's tough,
'Twas bootleg stuff.
Sold by some hardened grafter;
But Bill was right—
He died that night;
There was no "mourning after."

"A strong man like you ought not to beg. Why don't you look round for a job?"

"I can't look around, ma'am. I have a stiff neck."

Short But Sweet. Inclosed find check.

Incompatibility

If Americans can be divorced for "incompatibility of temper" I cannot conceive why they are not all divorced. I have known many happy marriages, but never a compatible one. The whole aim of marriage is to fight through and survive the instant when incompatibility becomes unquestionable. For a man and a woman, as such, are incompatible.—Chesterton.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, June 12.—Mrs. Ella Y. Longendyke of Kingston was a guest at her brother's, S. V. York, last week.

May Wilgus entertained her schoolmates on Friday afternoon in honor of her birthday. A happy time was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Crawford Vredenburgh spent Sunday afternoon at Lansing Carle's. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hellenbeck and children of Kingston were callers there also.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis York of Port Ewen spent Sunday with his mother and sister here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Braby, who has been suffering with neuritis for some time, was able to attend church services Sunday.

E. R. Palen gave a fine talk on "Serving God," from the Text 1 Kings 8:5-7 and 5-8, Sunday. Services as usual June 13. Sunday school at 1:30. Church service at 2:30. Everybody welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Sauly Felton visited his brother, Abram V. Felton, in Pittsfield, Mass., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Weeks of Kingston, called on his cousins, Mrs. Anna C. Snyder and Mary J. Carle, Sunday afternoon.

Kenneth H. Snyder is at Fleischmanns, employed as a bus driver on the Margaretville-Kingston route.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Van Bramer and daughter, and their aunt, Mrs. Elnora Lewis of Saugerties, were callers in this place Tuesday evening.

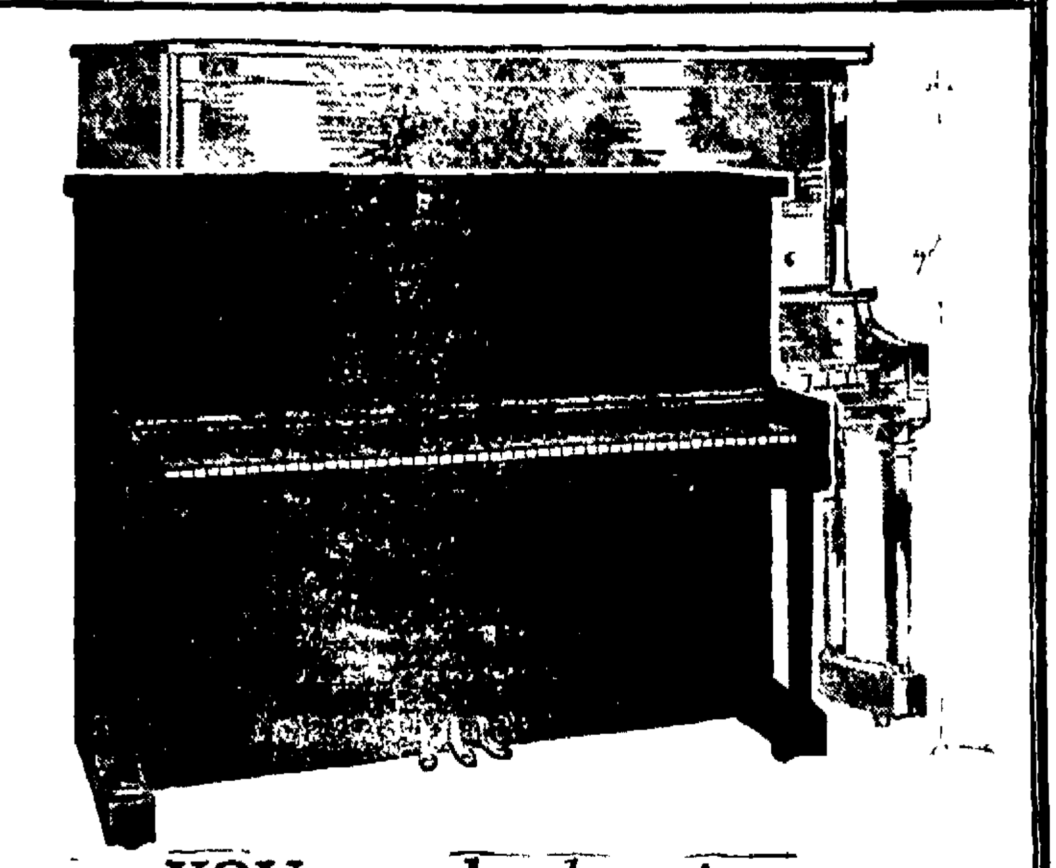

Mary J. Carle spent Tuesday afternoon at her nephew's Winfield E. Snyder.

PIANO FREE!

NEW GULBRANSEN SMALL PIANO

YOU may be the winner

No obligation—Nothing to buy

Just suggest the best name and slogan for this new Gulbransen Small Upright Piano, and you will be given one absolutely free of all cost.

HERE'S a chance to use your imagination. You will find the new Gulbransen a little beauty, a delight to the eye, to the ear, a gem of a piano that will fit in 'most any nook. Ideal for apartments, bungalows, small homes, studios, schools, churches, recreation centers, music conservatories, hotels, clubs, for an extra piano in the den or children's room, etc. Nationally Advertised and Nationally Priced at only $295.

It is not necessary for you to come to our store to see this piano to name it and give it a slogan. But it may help you to do so and you are welcome. Entry Blanks may be obtained at our store.

Rules of the Contest

Purpose: To obtain a name and slogan for the new small upright piano manufactured by the Gulbransen Company.

Prize: One of these instruments to be awarded to the person who submits the best name and slogan for it. The instrument will be autographed by Mr. A G. Gulbransen, president of Gulbransen Company.

Duration of Contest: From May 20th, 1926 to August 20th, 1926. The time of receipt of names and slogans will not be taken into consideration in making the awards. Suggestions postmarked August 20th will have as good opportunity of winning as those dated May 20th. In the case of a tie—two or more contestants submitting the same name and slogan—the same award of a small piano will be made to each.

Judges: Mr. H. A. Stewart, salesmanager of Gulbransen Company; Mr. Frank Justin, of Justin Brothers, dealers, of Cicero, Illinois; and Mr. James D. Woolf of J. Walter Thompson Co., advertising agency.

Type of Name Desired: We prefer to have a name descriptive of the instrument itself. Or the slogan accompanying the name may be so worded as to indicate the type of piano, as for instance:

Gulbransen Baby Piano
"Fits in Any Nook"

Bear in mind in naming the instrument that it is considerably smaller than pianos of ordinary size, as shown by the illustration above, and that it will be used principally in:

Small Apartments	Churches
Bungalows	Music Conservatories
Small Homes	Clubs
Studios	Hotels
Schools	Recreation Centers

Extra piano for den, children's rooms in large homes, etc., etc.

"Z" Engines

1-horsepower "Z" Engine equipt with Fairbanks Morse High Tension Rotary Magneto. Other sizes to 20 hp.

Powerfully Built-

Even down to the smallest parts

Know how an engine is built and you know what kind of service to expect from it. Investigate the working parts—the parts that spell the difference between a dependable, powerfully built, long-lived engine and the ordinary common run of engines.

If you could go through the "Z" Engine factory, the greatest engine factory in the world, you would be amazed to note the extreme care used in making even the smallest parts. Finest quality is the one and only standard.

Add to this the Fairbanks Morse experience of more than half a century in producing fine machinery and it is easily understood why the "Z" Engine has maintained a position of leadership for so many years. Over a half million "Z" Engines are now in use.

Come in and let us show you this sturdy engine that costs no more than ordinary engines. Sizes from 1 to 20 horsepower.

A LITERARY FLAPPER.

What the bright young "female" of our time can do is amazing, and what she sometimes does not hesitate to do is more amazing still. It has been discovered that the "Diary of a Young Lady of Fashion of the Year 1784-1785," which went on to nine editions in two months, became a sensation on both sides of the Atlantic, being accepted as genuine by leading critics, was deliberately faked by Magdalen Kings-Hall, an Irish girl of nineteen, daughter of an admiral. Although hailed as "another Pepys," it seems that the brilliant young miss had traveled little and was not even widely read. Evidently it was the daring raciness of her narrative that caused the critics to be taken in, they being too absorbingly entertained to have time to detect the numerous anarchronisms and historical inaccuracies.

Her heroine, Cleona Knox, is described as a minx who took a wilful delight in setting down a faithful account of all the amours and illicit loves of her day. The story opens with the attempt of a handsome young admirer to climb into Cleona's bedroom at night. Cleona found that most of Paris "stinks vilely," was kissed by the king, and noted that Voltaire reminded her of "a chattering old magpie." Venice was found to be "a gallant and loose city," and in St. Mark's "a young man pinched my arm with the sweetest smile in the world." And so on. Apparently the critics forgot that they must be watchful as they gulped the like of this down. Miss Kings-Hall says she wrote the book within a few weeks and crushingly remarks that she would have taken more pains with it if she had expected so many distinguished people to accept it seriously. And she boldly announced that she has another literary hoax in view. Well, she at least has all the necessary daring, unscrupulousness and sophistication—though only nineteen!

PLAIN-SPOKEN SOSNOWSKI.

If there were any reason to doubt the claim of Representative Sosnowski of Michigan that, in spite of his name, he is a native-born American, his ready employment of the vernacular would support the fact of which he is proud. This "gentleman from Michigan" has just achieved a certain distinction by his picturesque use of "unparliamentary" language. In the debate in the house of Representatives on the River and Harbor bill Mr. Sosnowski charged that the advocates of the Illinois River project were ready to combine with the champions of the "All-American" Ship Canal, favored by Representative Dempsey of New York, and boldly quoted the Illinois men as saying—in effect—to the New York men: "We have no scruples about stealing. So come on, Mr. Dempsey, put our project through, and we will help you jimmy Uncle Sam's strong box to the tune of over half a billion dollars."

Mr. Sosnowski could have said logrolling, meaning about the same, without giving offense, but "stealing" was too blunt and inconsiderate a word in the presence of the honorables from so many States. The House was horrified and, on motion, "stealing," although already taken down by the official stenographer, was expunged from the record. Mr. Sosnowski apologized for the use of so startling a word, but stoutly insisted that in substance his charge was true, even if such plain speech is not good form in the august presence of the House of Representatives of the United States of America.

EPIDEMIC'S VAST TOLL.

There are far more deaths from a serious epidemic than from war, pestilence, famine or the convulsions of nature. According to the assistant director of the League of Red Cross Societies, in his recent statement from Washington, of the 62 million lives lost since the outbreak of the World War, 40 million were taken by epidemic (chiefly the "flu"), nine million by war, six million by civil war, six million by famine and two million by earthquake and flood—a grisly harvest for two-thirds of which erring and blundering man was not responsible. It is estimated that within less than a year the "flu" took 25 million lives, or nearly 2 per cent of the population of the whole world. In India alone thirteen million people are believed to have perished during this epidemic, and entire regions of Africa are said to have been utterly depopulated, although the death totals were not available. In this country the deaths from the first "flu" epidemic were more than half a million and in five years totaled about 750,000. The outbreak of 1922 cost Great Britain 17,000 lives within three months.

These figures show, for one thing, what a feeble if not powerless defense against the sweep of a great epidemic is even the modern science of medicine. It is interesting to find that the huge losses traceable to famine and civil war belong mostly to Soviet Russia, wherein about twenty million people were wiped out in ten years. A heavy percentage of the losses due to epidemic is also traced to the economic collapse in that unhappy country.

That Body of Yours

THE CAUSE OF HEART AILMENTS

You are reading more and more about the tremendous number of heart cases, and that heart ailments now head the list as the cause of death.

Formerly we looked upon a heart ailment as something that was inherited, that came upon one mysteriously, perhaps due to some tremendous exertion.

Now, although a few folks may come into the world with a heart defect, and a few others may damage their hearts by exertion, there is no question but that the great mass of heart cases are due to some infection.

Almost any infection that gets into your system may attack the heart, whether it is an ailment of childhood like scarlet fever, or as is more frequently the case, rheumatism.

But infections from other parts of the body may be considered as the most frequent cause of heart ailments.

The tonsils were blamed for most of it for some years, then the teeth received equal blame, but now the sinuses that is the little bony caverns adjoining the nose, the gall bladder, the gums, the intestine, the kidney, and other parts, are all known to have been the original point from which the heart received its infection.

The poisons from infections from these parts interfere with the nerve conduction department of the heart, and also actually weaken the heart muscle itself, so that it loses its tone or strength. Now as heart disease carries off more people than any other single ailment, and heart disease is due in the majority of cases to infections in other parts of the body, doesn't it seem like common sense on our part, as a people to get busy and try and prevent heart disease by clearing up and preventing the infections that are the original cause of the heart conditions.

Instead of accepting heart disease as a sort of unwelcome but necessary visitor in our midst, let us consider it as something that can be prevented to a large extent by intelligent united effort on our part. Your first step is to have your family physician examine you and your family carefully, and thus enable you to clear up any possible points of infection.

Your dentist will also be needed.

If two in every hundred people suffer from heart disease, and one in every eight die therefrom, then it looks like a good business proposition to try and have yourself and your family not included in that number.

Even with every thought and precaution you may still fall a victim to it, but intelligent care of a heart case now enables the patient to live a useful life for many years.

The Individual

Living movements do not come of committees. No great work was ever done by a system, whereas systems rise out of individual exertions. The very faults of an individual excite attention; he loses, but his cause (if good and powerful) gains. This is the way of things. We promote truth by self-sacrifice.—Bishop Newman.

English Rule Began in New York With Nicoll's Proclamation, June 12, 1665.

A memorable day in the history of New York City was when Governor Richard Nicolls issued his now famous proclamation, June 12, 1665, by the provisions of which the Dutch government forever passed away, the burgomaster, schout and schepens were removed from office, and the English system of mayor, alderman and sheriff took their place. These have remained ever since, except for the brief period of the reconquest, as officials of New York.

A part of this historic proclamation was: "I, Richard Nicolls, do ordain that all inhabitants of New York, New Harlem and the Island of Manhattan are one body politic under the government of a Mayor, Alderman and Sheriff, and I do appoint for one whole year, commencing from the date hereof and ending the 12th day of June, 1666, Mr. Thomas Willett to be Mayor."

The new Mayor was from Plymouth, a useful and active man. He had been Stuyvesant's wise counsellor in diplomacy. One hundred and forty-two years afterwards (1807) Marinus Willett, his great-great-grandson was mayor of New York City, then freed from English rule. The first aldermen were John Delavall, Shephen Van Cortlandt, Johannes Van Brugh, Cornelius Van Ruyven and John Lawrence. The sheriff was Allard Anthony, who had been the Dutch schout. Three of the new officials were English—Willett, Delavall and Lawrence; four were Hollanders.

On June 14 the magistrates took the oath of office and the new government began; the bell in the fort was rung three times to celebrate the birth of the new City of New York.

War between Holland and England had broken out early in 1665. The Dutch had resolved no longer to submit to the domination of the English. The States-General authorized the Dutch West India Company to "attack, conquer and ruin the English, both in and out of Europe, on land and water." The conflict raged chiefly on the ocean.

Meanwhile two royal favorites, Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret, obtained a deed from the Duke of York for the whole of the territory between the Hudson River and the Delaware, and in memory of the gallant defense of the Island of Jersey by the latter, he named the domain in the charter Nova Caesarea, or New Jersey. The loss of this fair dominion was a severe blow to Governor Nicolls, as yet no one had settled on the banks of the Raritan and the Hackensack, but he was evidently preparing to extend his authority over the fair lands of Albania, as he had named it. He even wrote a protest to the duke, urging that it was the most valuable part of the duke's possessions.

In August Nicolls sailed up the Hudson for the first time, and reached Albany in safety. He went there ostensibly to quiet the Indians, but more probably to observe the conduct of the Dutch inhabitants.

He placed Captain Baker in charge of the fort at Albany, with instructions to keep strict watch and discipline, to live in peace with the Dutch and avoid all disputes and differences. Captain Manning he removed to New York. He licensed one of Baker's soldiers as the first English school-master at Albany.

On his return down the river Nicolls stopped at Esopus, where Brodhead was in command, and counselled him to be patient, prudent and forebearing. Nicolls bought large tracts of land in Esopus from the Indians.

One of the peculiar events to occur at this time was the trial of Ralph and Mary Hall for the "abominable crime" of witchcraft. It was held before the Court of Assize of New York in October, 1665. The prisoners were from Brookhaven, Long Island, and were charged with having procured the deaths of one George Wood by wicked arts, and of the infant child of Ann Rogers, "widdow of ye aforesaid George Wood."

Several witnesses testified to the facts. The clerk read the charge: "Ralph Hall, thou standest here indicted for that, not having the God before thine eyes, thou didst upon the 25th day of December, as is suspected, by some wicked and detestible acts, cause the deaths of the said George Wood and the infante childe." Mary Hall was summoned in the same way. Both pleaded "not guilty," and the intelligent jury gave them the benefit of the doubt. Hall was acquitted, but some suspicion rested upon his wife, and he gave bonds for her good conduct. Governor Nicolls set them both free.

Some years later Katherine Harrison was charged by the people of Westchester with witchcraft. They were anxious to drive her beyond the border, but she proved her innocence so clearly that she was allowed to remain.

New York officials were free from the mad superstition that covered Old and New England with judicial murders. Their juries never condemned a witch.

Richard Nicolls governed New York judiciously and wisely for four years, when he resigned the government into the hands of his appointed successor, Francis Lovelace.

The New-Day
JEWETT SIX

DON'T envy skillful drivers. Get a New-Day Jewett—and be one! Get away immediately when the traffic signal says "go"—stop the instant it says "stop".

And get away easily and quickly, as a bird starts to fly—not as a roadbuilder gets his tractor under way! Stop, too, without straining your legs or wrenching the wheel from its column.

There is no quicker, smoother, sprightlier acceleration built than you have at your command in the New-Day Jewett Six. And you can't find better, more expensive, safer, easier-acting or more certain brakes than Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes.

Good drivers are better drivers the minute they get a Jewett. They just can't help it. For here is a car that was deliberately built to be the easiest, surest and safest car in the world to drive.

And it is just that! Don't judge this car—or any car—with your eyes alone. Get in and drive. You'll need no further proof of this New-Day Jewett's superiority.

Try it—soon—entirely without obligation.

Only The "New-Day" Jewett Six offers all these features:

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER—In the Matter of the Application of JOHN W. ODELL, for an Order dissolving his marriage with OLIVE STICKLES ODELL, Respondent.

TO OLIVE STICKLES ODELL:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN YOU that a petition has been presented by John W. Odell to the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on the [illegible] day of May, 1926, praying that the marriage between yourself and John W. Odell be dissolved, on the ground that you have absented yourself for upwards of five years last past without being known to the said John W. Odell to be living by reason of which you are presumed to be dead. This notice is given you by publication pursuant to an order made by the Supreme Court and duly filed and entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on the [illegible] day of May, 1926.

You will further take notice that a hearing will be held on the said petition before the Supreme Court at a Special Term thereof to be held in and for the County of [illegible] on the [illegible] day of July, 1926, at [illegible] the forenoon of that day, and upon your failure to appear or answer said petition, an order will be made by said Court dissolving the marriage between yourself and John W. Odell.

Dated, May [illegible], 1926.

Yours, etc.,
LE ROY LOUNSBERRY,
Attorney for Petitioner,

Commencement At St. Stephen's

Baccalaureate Service Sunday Opens Program at Annandale-on-Hudson —Commencement Exercises Tuesday—Degrees to Be Conferred.

The Sixty-sixth Commencement exercises at St. Stephen's College will be held beginning tomorrow at Annandale-on-Hudson. A baccalaureate service will be held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The celebrant will be the chaplain of the college, the Rev. Kenneth O. Crosby, and the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Paul Jones.

On Monday there will be an informal dance given by the Dragon Club to the graduating class and its friends in the afternoon and later the faculty ladies will receive informally at the president's house. The fraternities will hold their annual banquets on Monday evening.

On Tuesday the Alumni Association will meet at 10 a. m. in Bard Hall, the new Alumni building. They will be presided over by the president of the association, the Rev. Albert Wilson, rector of St. John's Church, Passaic, N. J. After a formal luncheon in Preston Hall the college will proceed to faculty hill where three faculty houses lately erected will be blessed by the Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, bishop of Central New York. These houses are the gifts of John A. Hance of New York, Edward F. Albee of New York and Dr. William C. Rives of Washington. At 2:45 p. m. the commencement exercises will be held in the chapel. The chief address will be given by President Harry A. Garfield of Williams College on the subject. "The Relationship between the Small College and the large Universities." Sixteen Bachelor's degrees will be conferred.

Three honorary degrees will be given as follows:

Frederick H. Ecker, president of the New York Association of Commerce, and vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Doctor of Laws.

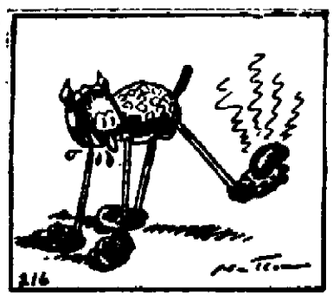

The Rev. Canon H. Adye Prichard, M. A., Rector of the Episcopal Church at Mt. Kisco, sometime acting Dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York city, Doctor of Divinity.

The Rev. James O. McIlhenny, M. A., of the class of 1893, Rector of the Church of the Resurrection, Philadelphia, Doctor of Divinity.

President Bernard Iddings Bell will confer the degrees and the Bishop Coadjutor of Albany, the Rt. Rev. G. Ashton Oldham, will close the year's session with his blessing.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH McCANN.

THE VEGETARIAN WUFF.

The wuff is one of the few living carnivorous quadrupeds that took up the eating of vegetation and vegetables when the pursuit of living game became too strenuous. It was due to the scarcity of buffaloes and jackrabbits in the Berkshire Hills that the wuff became discouraged and migrated eastward towards the vicinity of Boston, where it has lived ever since on the vegetables of that region, chiefly the Boston baked bean. Great packs of wuffs are often seen following a party of bean-shooters out on a hunting expedition in hopes of picking up some of the catch, and the hunters usually throw the beans that are too hot for consumption at the wuffs to keep them away.

The wuff shown in the above picture has just captured a red-hot bean, and is cooling it on its highly-heat-resistant feet, made of raisins. Its legs are toothpicks and its tail is a clove, while the body is a single peanut and the head is a filbert. The ears are popcorn, and rice grains are used for the nose and tongue. The mouth-watering expression can be done with pen and ink, pencil, or water-color.

CLINIC FOR BACKWARD CHILDREN HERE FRIDAY

On Friday, June 18, a clinic for problem and backward children will be held at the Ulster county building, 74 John street, between the hours of 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. The physician, Dr. Walter N. Thayer, Jr., from Napanoch, and Miss Louise A. Lindeman, field agent, from the State Commission for Mental Defectives, are both specialists with children who are having difficulty in doing school work, those who are irritable, quarrelsome, hard to manage, nervous or retarded in mental or physical development. Those presenting children to this clinic are advised as to how the child can be benefited. All children should be accompanied by someone who can give the examiner a good history of the child's development and habits.

"Y" Auxiliary Meets at Shokan

Auxiliary of Y. M. C. A. Entertained at Summer Camp of President—Subscribes $25 to Hospital Fund—Interesting Reports Received.

The June meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was held on Friday at the summer camp of the president, Mrs. Longyear, at Shokan. Quite a delegation from the Newburgh and Poughkeepsie auxiliaries were guests at the meeting.

Two chartered busses filled to capacity left the Y. M. C. A. between 11 a. m. and noon. Shortly after their arrival at the cottage all gathered upon the piazza and lawn where a delicious lunch was served. After lunch the guests strolled about enjoying the extensive view to be seen from the knolls, a short distance from the house.

A brief business meeting was held, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden having charge of the devotions.

There was considerable discussion over the proposal of Sunday movies and vaudeville for Kingston, and should a public hearing be held there will probably be quite a sizable delegation from the auxiliary to signify their disapproval of the same.

It was voted to donate $25 towards the hospital drive, which gift will entitle the auxiliary to a life membership in the Hospital Association.

The Newburgh auxiliary reported that $125,000 had been raised for a new Y. M. C. A. building, the ladies having pledged $500 of the amount. It is expected that the building will be completed by fall and it is the intention of the Newburgh auxiliary to invite both the Poughkeepsie and Kingston auxiliaries to their opening day.

The Poughkeepsie delegates reported that they are financing a boys' camp to be held near Ancram. They had spent $600 in repairing the tent foundations.

Secretary Porter and Mr. Hall, the boys' work secretary, were present. Mr. Hall told of the work done in the boys' department during the past year, dealing particularly upon the religious side of the work. He stated that a group of 18 or 19 Hi-Y boys had held 15 religious services in churches of nearby towns, such as Catskill, Millerton and New Paltz.

Miss Froncella Anderson entertained with two readings: Selection from "The Lawn Party" from "Samantha at Saratoga" and "Carlotta's Indecision", an Italian dialect number by J. A. Daley. After singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again", the meeting adjourned. The busses took all for a ride around the dam and back to Kingston. The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held the second Friday in October.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, June 12.—Ten new candidates were initiated into Lucretia Rebekah Lodge Thursday evening. Mrs. Blakely and staff of Highland Rebekah Lodge put on the work. At the close of the session ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. John Holliday of Bowen street is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stadt in New York city.

Christopher Parsell of Kingston spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. David Parsell on Stout avenue.

There will be a general rehearsal of the singing for Children's Day this evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Methodist Church. All who will help sing are asked to be present.

Hope Temple, No. 80, Pythian Sisters, will meet in convention at their temple rooms Monday for afternoon and evening sessions. Several temples will be present. Deputy Mrs. John Spinneweber has worked hard for this convention and every member of Hope Temple is urged to be present.

New Discovery Dissolves Freckles

GONE IN 4 DAYS

Here's a new and inexpensive cream called Flyte that is easy to apply—will not stain—yet after you've used it for four days your freckles are all gone—simply melted away.

Women have waited long for a real freckle remover and now they can obtain it any Wm. F. Dedrick's or any live up-to-date druggist anywhere with the distinct understanding that if it fails your money will be returned.

And after your freckles are gone you'll find that your skin has improved—it will be cleaner, clearer and more youthful looking. Ask for a jar of Flyte.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Says Wm. F. Dedrick's

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you Wm. F. Dedrick's sells lots of it.

At a Special Term of the County Court, held in and for the County of Ulster, at the County Court House, in the City of Kingston, in said County, on the 25th day of May, 1926.

PRESENT, HONORABLE JOSEPH M. FOWLER, County Judge.

COUNTY COURT, Ulster County—In the matter of the petition of JOHN J. MOLYNEAUX to have a mortgage discharged of record.

On reading and filing the petition of John J. Molyneaux, verified the 8th day of May, 1926, praying that a mortgage executed by John Sperling and Hannah Sperling, his wife, to Frederick H. Davis, to secure the payment of the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, ($150) bearing date the first day of April, 1861, and which was on the 11th day of April, 1861, recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in Book 61 of Mortgages, at page 462, and which mortgage is a lien on premises situate in the County of Ulster; that Frederick H. Davis, the mortgagee in said mortgage named, has been dead for more than thirty years; that he died on February 28, 1868, a resident of the Town of Marbletown, County of Ulster and State of New York; that letters of administration issued out of and under the seal of the Surrogate's Court of the County of Ulster to George H. Davis and Lounsbury Davis, of the Town of Marbletown, Ulster County, New York, whose present whereabouts are unknown; that the said Frederick H. Davis died intestate leaving as his only heirs at law and next of kin, Esther Davis, of Stone Ridge, New York; Elizabeth A. Davis, of Stone Ridge, New York; Lounsbury Davis, Stone Ridge, New York; George H. Davis, Stone Ridge, New York, Ruth A. Wyman, Rhinebeck, New York and Emma DuBois of Gardiner, New York, all of whose places of residence are now unknown; that the said mortgage was never assigned by Frederick H. Davis, so far as the records in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster indicate, except that there appears upon the record in said Clerk's office a record of an assignment of said mortgage from George Chambers to Elijah Van DeMark, which is recorded in Book 50 of Mortgages, at page 472, that Elijah Van DeMark, the assignee in said instrument named, died September 15, 1894, testate, leaving a last Will and Testament admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Ulster County in and by which he devised and bequeathed all of his estate to Sarah A. Woolsey, his daughter; that the said Sarah A. Woolsey has since died leaving her surviving her husband, Philip Woolsey of Hurley, New York, and Howard Myer of Kingston, New York, and Phyllis Myer of Hurley, New York, and Catherine Myer, of Hurley, New York, her grandchildren as her only heirs at law and next of kin; that the said mortgage was never assigned by Elijah Van DeMark or his personal representatives; that more than twenty years have elapsed since said mortgage was due and payable, and that the same is now from lapse of time presumed to be paid; it is

ORDERED, that all persons interested show cause at a Special Term of this court, appointed to be held at the County Court House, in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster, in the State of New York, on the 28th day of June, 1926, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard why an order should not be made by this Court cancelling and discharging said mortgage of record, and directing the Clerk of the County of Ulster in whose office the same is recorded to mark the same upon his records as cancelled and discharged, and further ordering and directing that the bond or obligation secured by said mortgage be cancelled; and it is further ORDERED, that this order be published in the Kingston Daily Freeman, a newspaper published in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, once each week for four successive weeks, and that a copy of this order be served personally on Philip Woolsey, Howard Myer, Phyllis Myer and Catherine Myer, at least eight days before the return day of this order to show cause.

Reformed Church More Aggressive

Proverbial Dutch Conservatism Being Broken, As Shown by Proceedings of General Synod and Year's Work of Denomination—Greater Activity Planned in Cities.

The 120th session of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, which has just closed at Holland, Michigan, was truly a Western Synod. Not only was it held at the center of the church's domain in the middle west, but it commemorated the coming of the Holland churches composed of the Dutch immigrants of Michigan and the middle west into the Reformed Church of America and thus united the east and the west and began the extension of the Reformed denomination, that up to that time had been content to rest on the banks of the Raritan, the Hudson and the Mohawk rivers into a denomination that has now scattered its churches clean across the northern section of the United States until it has reached the Pacific Ocean and crossed the northern boundary into the Dominion of Canada.

The officers of Synod were practically all from the west. The Rev. S. C. Nettinga, D. D., professor of Church History of the Western Theological Seminary of Holland, Michigan, was elected president; the Rev. Jasper Hogan, D. D., of New Brunswick, N. J., was the runner up and a close second but the western professor won out. After Doctor Hogan declined the vice presidency, the Rev. John G Meengs of Schenectady, N Y, a son of the middle west and a graduate of Hope College, was elected vice president. The Rev. A. Karreman of Mussegon and the Rev. A. Maatman of Holland were made clerks. The only eastern man elected was the Rev. Leonard Sibley of Minaville, N. Y, who was elected clerk. As the eastern delegates were in majority there was no contest between the west and the east.

True Western Hospitality.

The people of Holland were most gracious to the delegates and showed the true western hospitality. Committees met the delegates at the station and sent them by autos to their hotels or boarding places. A fine banquet was given to the delegates on Friday at Carnegie Hall On Saturday afternoon the Chamber of Commerce of Holland treated the delegates to an auto ride through Holland and vicinity and down to Lake Michigan, and on Saturday evening the pageant depicting the history of Holland and Hope College was given.

Conservatism Begins to Crack.

Synod was a progressive one, which is seen in several things. The proverbial Dutch conservatism is being broken. The president's sermon in which he advocated the uniting of the two theological seminaries; uniting of the two denominational papers, and interchange of ministers between East and West and some other changes of lesser importance was unique and very progressive. He also advocated a more aggressive policy in missions and a wider work in education. The progressive tendency is also seen in many of the acts of Synod, one of which was the resolution to cut out the roll call both at the beginning and during the session of Synod to save time and expedite its work and save time.

Reports Show Growth.

Reports of the year are on the whole very encouraging. The only real loss is in the number of Sunday schools and Sunday school scholars. There are many reasons that could be given for this and which more or less explain it, nevertheless it is a fact and much was said of it by Synod and no doubt this loss will lead to a campaign with a decided advancement in young people's work and religious education. There has also been a very slight decrease in the gifts of denominational benevolences (missions). Excepting these there has been a decided advance along all lines of work. The pension fund of one million dollars, to be completed in 1928, tricentennial year of the denomination, has reached in pledges and gifts from individuals the sum of $825,000 and nearly half a million dollars of this has already been paid in in cash. Membership in the church has made a net gain of over two per cent in the last year and has now reached 148,000.

Condemn British Liquor Exporters.

An interesting feature of the meeting of Synod was the presence of the Rev. J. W. L. Hoffmeyer, secretary of the Dutch Reformed Missionary Society of South Africa. This is practically same denomination with the Reformed Church in America, although there is no official connection between them and they have never heretofore had any fraternal fellowship or the presence of delegates in either Synod. One of the things that has been done by the Reformed Church during the past year is the sending by the committee on public morals of a resolution condemning the action of certain citizens of Great Britain in the exportation of liquors to this country; to the church councils of the religious denominations of Great Britain. Already four most favorable replies have been received.

Synod adjourned at Saturday noon and the afternoon was spent in the automobile ride spoken of, and the evening at the pageant of the college. Sunday was a very busy day. In the morning at Synod's church there was a sermon by the president, S. C. Nettinga, and the Communion of the Lord's Supper administered by the vice-president, the Rev. J. G. Meengs. In the afternoon there was a meeting at Pine Lodge, and at 6:30 p. m. a Young People's Conference in Winant's Chapel, the subject of which was "What Can the Young People Do, and How Can They Do It?" led by Abram Duryea. At 3 p. m. all the churches of Holland united in a union service in Carnegie Hall where Dr. Hill presided and the Rev. Martin J. Hoffman, former president of Central College, preached the sermon. The musical department of Hope College furnished very superior music at this service.

Church Extension in Cities.

Monday took up the business of Synod anew. The overture from the North Classis of Long Island asking for the raising of a million dollars for church extension was the first order of business. This fund is to be started at the close of the raising of the Pension Fund in 1928. The Rev. Robert K. Wick, D. D., of Jamaica, L. I., spoke very effectively in favor of the overture which was carried by a large majority and referred to the Board of Domestic Missions for the arranging of means to carry it out. It was also suggested that the Board of Domestic Missions consider very carefully its grants, especially to churches without a future. There was a strong feeling in Synod for church extension, especially in the important city centers as around New York city, Philadelphia and Chicago. This fund, if raised will give a great impetus to church advancement by furnishing money to begin church work, especially by buying plots of ground in developing sections before the price of land becomes prohibitive.

The Sunday school publication work has grown greatly during the past year, especially in the work of teacher training and week day religious schools, and this denomination is exceedingly well organized in this work.

Synod approved the proposed plan for a new Protestant Encyclopedia and took a strong stand favoring help for the Protestant churches of Europe, pledging the raising of $10,000 for this purpose.

Foreign Mission Work.

Missions are the great work of the Reformed Church During the past year the church has raised $553,364 for Foreign Missions. In China and Japan the natives have raised a little more on the field, in cash, than was sent from this country In India enough was raised to pay for one department of the mission work, and even in Arabia there has been large gifts During the past four years, this denomination has stood still in its gifts to foreign mission work and the committee suggested a possible retrenchment. Synod, however, refused vehemently to hear of any such thing, but on the other hand ordered the Board to make an advance.

Synod enjoyed the singing of the Sunshine Quartet from Brewton, Alabama. This quartet of colored girls is from the denominational school at the above place. The Board of Education reported that 87 students for the ministry or missionary work was under its care and that $98,000 have been received of which $15,107 was spent in helping students and the remainder used for educational institutions There are 40 students for the ministry in the Western Theological Seminary and 19 at New Brunswick Seminary. Eugene Duryea of Jersey City, N. J., and Henry A. Olsen of Bergen Fields, N. J., were given a dispensation for ordination to the ministry. They have not taken the course in our theological seminary. Synod, however, was very reluctant in the matter of dispensation and refused it to one other who asked for it.

The Domestic Mission Field.

In the United States the Reformed Church has also done valiant work. During the last year it has raised $465,692.00 for Domestic Missions, and used it for aiding 222 churches. It has organized nine new missions and six new churches. The churches under its care have received 1,705 new members. The demands for new church buildings have placed the Board in a critical condition. Already $136,500 has been promised for new church buildings for which there are no funds on hand. The Woman's Board has also done excellent work.

Synod closed its sessions Tuesday evening. The Rev. A. Von Schlieder was reappointed chairman of the program committee and the Rev. W. E. Compton of Schenectady, N. Y., was appointed press clerk for the 19th consecutive year. After the report of the committee on resolutions which thanked all those including the press that helped make the Synod a success, and speeches by Holland pastors, Synod adjourned with "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

PORT EWEN.

Monday, June 14, will be a great day in this village, for then Hope Temple, No. 80, Pythian Sisters, will have as their guests those attending the district convention, which will be held here on the above date. The following Temples will be represented: Saugerties, Tannersville, Ellenville, Pine Bush and Kingston. The committee on arrangements have been working hard for some time to make the affair a big success and have about completed all arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors. About 250 delegates are expected for the convention which will be a one day session, afternoon and evening. There will be an open session in the afternoon starting at 2:15 and lasting until 3:45, at which time the regular business session will begin. The evening session will begin at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that all brothers and sisters of Hope Temple will be present as this is the first convention of its kind to be held in the village. Deputy Sister Mrs. John Spinnenweber, one of the first members of Hope Temple, has worked very hard for the lodge since it was instituted in 1923, and the members are asked to give her their loyal support and help by their presence at the convention and to help entertain the visiting delegates.

PINKS AND THE LESS PURE WHITES ARE FASHION'S FAVORED COLORS.

A Bois de Rose Knitted Frock is Complemented by Openwork Mittens and Tan Felt Hat.

Interesting Sleeves Which Reveal Finely Pleated Crepe de Chine in Their Lower Sections Add Piquancy to a Jumper Made of Tan Jersey, Worn with a Tan Crepe de Chine Pleated Skirt Striped in Tan, Rose and Brown.

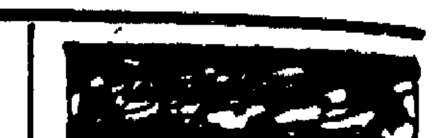

Stripes and graduated ombre plaids, subtly harmonized designs of the less striking variety, these are the pieces de resistance decorative for this season's sporting mode. Subdued coloring is the key-note of the mode, with just enough occasional flashes of brilliance to remove any hint of monotony.

A border of lavender, and rose and pink, for instance, will serve as the most appropriate edge for a sports frock of pink washable silk. The accompanying hat should be of lavender-trimmed pink, or lavender, and if one is very chic and rather daring, she may sport a pair of pink doeskin gloves.

Pink, incidentally, has a present importance in the realm of color which can hardly be too much emphasized. There are blush-pink flowers for one's boutonniere, and for one's hat of black milan. There are pink linings to be glimpsed within the afternoon coat of faille of satin, and facings of pink for the popular evening frock of tulle, or lace or crepe. Evening gowns in crystal-be-decked pink are still fashion's favorite for the tripping of the light fantastic. Pure whites are always good, but this season, at least, those which are a bit less pure, a bit off-color, are to be preferred.

Still, one is tempted to put in a word or two in favor of the perennial whites. For the middle-aged woman, particularly, indulgence in pastels is a matter for very knowing discretion. There is nothing more attractive for the older woman than plain white—with white hairs, and gray hairs—a fact that is proven year after year at Palm Beach by those of the aforementioned years who are numbered among the country's social elite.

Milady's Wardrobe is Assembled from Many Countries—The Mode Has An International Flavor.

Just because a frock bears a French label, it is not necessarily entirely French in inspiration. The great couturiers there seek their designs from every country in the world. Never more than at present has there been a greater vogue for things antique, and things exotic.

The Spanish flavor has been dwelt upon; its picturesque silhouette lines and jauntily tipped hats are now more or less familiar to us all. But there are also coats built on the lines of the Chinese mandarin's coat, others copied after the Russian tunic.

The Flat Crepe Scarf at the Top is a French Import Patterned with a Multicolored American Indian Design.

The Spanish Senorita's Head Suggestive of Raquel Meller Adorns One End of a Long Narrow Crepe de Chine Scarf. The Whole Design is Carried Out in Colors of Red, Bluish Green, and Yellow.

The American Indian was the inspiration of the scarf design here pictured. Other scarfs become the pallette for quite artistic attempts, since it is smart to wear a painted portrait upon the end of one's scarf. The one pictured is Spanish, but there are many others, from the flapper with her closely bobbed hair to pictures of old French troubadours, with their guitars.

Peasant embroideries are very stylish, colorful designs in quaint, old-fashioned motifs—particularly on white dresses. Then, of course, there are the bolder Russian and Bulgarian embroideries, which have been successfully adapted to coats and dresses by the modern dressmakers.

But truly French are some of the smaller accessories of the modern mode—a new umbrella handle, for instance, shows a mirror top, into which the fashionable miss may peep to see if her nose needs an application of powder. Likewise French is the custom of wearing one, two, or three huge carnations on the lapel of your tailleur, and if they are of varying shades of the same tone, so much the better.

Old Gambling Game

Faro is one of the oldest gambling games and is supposed to be of Italian origin. It belongs to the same family as lansquenet, basset and [illegible]. Under the name of pharaon it was in great favor during the reign of Louis XIV and came to America by way of New Orleans.

St. Louis Cardinals at Fair Grounds Sunday

Record Crowd Expected to View Game Between Colonials and St. Louis National League Team, Sunday at Fair Grounds—Regulars in Cardinals' Line-up—Art Smith Will Lead Colonials—Gates Open at 1 o'Clock.

With the Colonials lying in wait with the same powerful line-up of a week ago, with Art Smith, the collegian twirler prepared to lead the Phelpsmen's defensive skirmishes and the Fair Grounds owners ready to stow away 3,000 fans or more, Kingston sportdom is all set for the invasion of the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday afternoon.

And the Kingstonians need to be well entrenched for the band which Rogers Hornsby brings to the Fair Grounds fresh from the National League race is a much-famed lot.

The most popular player next to the Cardinal second sacker is Jim Bottomley who performs around first for the big leaguers. Besides his prowess with the stick Bottomley is pretty generally known by critics as the best first baseman in the major leagues.

Although the names of the rest of the stars of the Cardinal band are not known quite as far and wide as those of Hornsby or Bottomley, these players are by no means strangers to baseball fans and their work will be just as keenly watched Sunday afternoon. O'Farrell will no doubt be nominated to catch the Cardinals' rookie twirler. It has not been announced as yet who will go to the mound for the big league outfit.

Cardinals' Line-up.

The Phelpsmen will be up to their necks in trouble Sunday to keep near the Cardinals with the skillful lot of fielders they bring to Kingston. The rest of the Cards' infield will be composed of Lester Bell in the third base area and Tommy Thevenow, the flashy infielder at short stop. Then in the outer canvas will be roaming three more of Hornsby's nuggets, Blades at left, Douthit at center and Mueller over in right.

Line-up of Locals.

With Eddie Phelps exhibiting the same line-up he used a week ago against Flushing the fans will have a great opportunity to judge the Colonials at their best against a big league team.

Melvin will be behind the bat catching Art's benders. The locals will also be well prepared with Vince O'Brien at first, Tex Kelly at second, Johnnie Peters at short and Bernie McCue at third base. Then in the outfit the Colonials will be all set with Ted Karis in the right corner, Eddie Phelps, Jr., in center and Billy Allen in left. Clyde Russel and Eddie Baker will also be on hand to be of assistance to Art if he should find trouble.

Gates Open at One.

At one o'clock the gates will be opened when the advance guard of the expected record crowd will be admitted. From the amount of pre-game interest displayed throughout the Hudson Valley the local management expects the park to be taxed to its capacity. Those desiring to view the contest from a reserved seat are warned to come early. No reserved seats will be sold in advance. The local management is giving fans an equal chance by putting the reserved seats on sale following the opening of the gates.

New Umpire.

Harry Seixas will umpire the game and he should help to make the affair snappy. Seixas is president of the Interstate Umpires Association of New York. He performed here during the 1922 season.

EAGLES CAME FROM BEHIND AND WON ANOTHER.

After trailing the Champion base ball team through practically the whole game the Victory Eagles came from behind and won out by the score of 10-9. The score was 5-0 in favor of the Champions at the beginning of the sixth inning. The Eagles scored three in the sixth and then tied the score in the seventh. In the eighth both teams scored and in the ninth J. Houghtaling walked, stole second and then third and brought the winning run in on Murphy's single to right.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Matheis, who relieved Rosenzweig with the Champions leading 5-0 in the fourth. Also the hitting of J. Houghtaling who got a triple and two singles out of three trips to the plate. Thursday night's victory gave the Eagle's a record of 11 wins and three defeats.

The battery for the losers was Rice and McDonald, p.; Sass and Post, c. The Eagles lined up in the following order: H. Houghtaling, ss.; Jordan 3b. and 2b.; Gorman, lf.; Matheis, p. and 2b.; Gill, rf.; J. Houghtaling, c.; Rosenzweig, p. and 3b.; Murphy, cf.; Friebe, 1b.

Score by innings:

Champions ....3 2 1 0 0 0 0 3 0— 9
Eagles ....0 0 0 0 0 3 3 3 1—10

Metropolitan Finals.

New York, June 12.—John G. Anderson, of the home club, former French open champion and a finalist in the national championship as far back as 1909, will meet William Reekie, upper Montclair, in the 36-hole finals for the Metropolitan Amateur Golf title today at the Winged Foot Country Club, Mamaroneck.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Cubs snapped the winning streak of the Braves at eight straight, pounding out a 7 to 6 victory. The winning run rode home on a single by Stephenson, formerly of Cleveland.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn used five pitchers each and so many other players that the box score resembled a telephone directory. The Reds got the verdict in the eleventh inning, 8 to 6, and now lead the Pirates by two full games.

Thirty-four hits were made in slowtown as the demon Phils, falling on Pittsburgh's crippled pitching staff, won another slugfest, 13 to 11. Whightstone, with a homer, a triple and two doubles, accounted for nine runs.

The Cardinals hauled the corpses of the Giants out of the morgue and executed them for the third straight time, 10 to 2, with Victor Keen directing the firing. The Red Birds are only three games away from first place.

Ty Cobb picked a tough spot for Wilbur Cooper's first appearance in the American League and the veteran lasted but four innings against the Yanks, who won 9 to 3 and swept the series.

Gaston got the verdict over Ehmke as the Browns smeared the Red Sox, 4 to 3, on a single by McManus with the bases full in the tenth.

A Tough Job For Berlenbach

To Hold His Title As He Is Scheduled to Meet Jack Delaney Next Month—Delaney Will Not Be the Stationary Target Stribling Proved to Be.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

New York, June 12.—While the band wagon still is blaring its way up and down Broadway over Paul Berlenbach's defense of his title against Young Stribling, the writer today feels the urge to climb into the front seat and play a very sour calliope. It is my conviction that Paul Berlenbach, as light heavyweight champion of the world, is not long for this life, so to speak.

He is signed and sealed to lay the title on the line next month when he meets Jack Delaney and my hunch is that he may be delivered on a stretcher.

Eulogies were cast all over the premises when Paul took the decision the other night and the writer was in there casting with the best of them. Berlenbach is a great champion, as champions go these days, and he proved it.

But I believe that he has slipped back from the form he knew a year ago and that, if Stribling had been a better contender, Berlenbach might have proved that, too. He can't slip an inch and hope to beat Delaney.

Berlenbach, of course, never was fast, fancy or fastidious about his methods. The system was and is simple. He goes to his man, shifts and hooks a left hand, either to the head or body, mostly the latter. Having landed, he keeps the punch going until the referee breaks him away his performance is repeated indefinitely and without much variation.

It was good enough against Stribling but I am inclined to wonder whether it would have been so effective if the Georgian had kept moving around his man. He made no use of his footwork after the third round; in fact, he sought to get in close with Berlenbach at every opportunity, a form of mild dementia. It helped to make the champion's task that much easier and it was easy enough, in truth.

What completed Stribling's ruin was his stationary defense when Berlenbach was feinting him with the shift. The challenger apparently had been so thoroughly imbued with respect for Paul's punch that he could think of nothing better than covering up. Apparently, it didn't occur to him to try to take the play away from the champion by feinting himself. He stood on his flat feet and covered. In consequence, all Paul had to do was to step in, pick his spot and hit. Most of his punches landed on Stribling's arms, perforce, but they almost paralyzed those members and left the Georgian's attack, if any, useless.

I think the fight proved that Berlenbach is hitting just as accurately and as hard as ever. I do not think he is hitting as fast. His shift seemed slow and, if Stribling had been awake to his opportunities, he might have watched Berlenbach's right leg and conducted himself accordingly. The feint, of course, is without significance. Berlenbach occasionally hits with his right but it doesn't mean anything in particular.

With a strangely stationary target, the man looked good. Will Delaney be a stationary target? Not unless they put him in a straight jacket.

Crusader Favored to Win.

New York, June 12.—Crusader, winner of the Suburban Handicap, was expected to go to the post a favorite this afternoon in the annual running of the $60,000 Belmont, one of the greatest three-year-old tests of the year. The race, to be run at the true derby distance of one and one-half miles, will close the spring meeting at Belmont Park, and ten thoroughbreds were nominated overnight. Crusader, quoted at seven to five in the early line, will be ridden by Johnson, who was Bubbling Over's jockey in the Kentucky Derby.

Scientist Avers He Saw Luminous Spider

He's a long way from home and he cannot prove it, but we are going to take his word for it that he saw the only luminous spider that has ever been seen by humans. This is what Barnum Brown claims to have done some time ago when he was in central Burma on a scientific expedition, of which he is an assistant curator.

He had been out on a long hunt for specimens and was endeavoring to make a short cut home, when he lost his way and had to spend the night in the jungle. He saw many luminous flies of one kind or another moving about, but as he sat there in the darkness he observed a very bright spot not very far from him which glowed steadily and brilliantly.

He approached as near as he could, for the light seemed to be in the midst of a thicket, and then he struck a match and discovered that it was a luminous spider.

Knowing the danger of being poisoned by the bite of an insect of this character, he prepared to catch it in his handkerchief, but at a critical moment, just as he was in the act of seizing the specimen, his handkerchief caught on a twig and the spider escaped.

He never saw another one or ever heard of anyone else doing so, and since his arrival home has searched all the recognized books on the subject and failed to find any mention of a luminous spider. He says it is not remarkable that the natives should never have seen such a spider, for they never venture away from their huts after dark for fear of offending the spirits which are supposed to be abroad after darkness has fallen.

Messinger Wins Laidlaw Cup

Edwin J. Messinger, son of Jacob L. Messinger of West Union street, has been awarded the Laidlaw silver loving cup for being the best all around athlete of the scholastic year at the New York Military Academy at Cornwall, where he is a student. The cup will be exhibited in the window of the Charles A. Warren store on Fair street. Young Messinger was president of his graduating class at Kingston High School and was considered one of the best high school athletes and students in years. Since entering the military academy he has made a name for himself not only in athletics but also in scholarship.

Chryslers Still At Stuyvesant

Although B. S. L. Says They Are Not—Kingston's Most Industrious Citizen Turns His Attention to the Automobile Trade.

Kingston's B. S. L. has found time between his work of inventing railroad wars and calamities for the Hospital Campaign and the Governor Clinton Hotel, in which he has specialized recently, to invent and circulate most thoroughly a report that the Stuyvesant Garage no longer deals in Chrysler cars but has taken up the Hupmobile agency again. Of course it is not true and the Chambers brothers deny that they have even considered such action. Notwithstanding and nevertheless, the B. S. L. will go right on circulating the tale and insisting that it is true. Chrysler cars still are sold by the Stuyvesant Garage. If you do not believe it, go there and look at them, touch them, ride in them, buy them.

Kingston High School Notes

Thursday morning the usual morning assembly was held in the auditorium of the school.

The first number on the program was a recitation entitled, "The Saturday Night Bath," which was given by Lavonia Hasbrouck.

Theodore Weiner then gave an essay on "Prohibition—a Failure," written by John P. Hill.

Mr. O'Leary, gym instructor and coach of the High School Athletic teams, presented to the Sophomore baseball team a cup. The Sophomores throughout the year have defeated the other teams in the interclass baseball league and have thereby won the championship of the school.

Mr. O'Leary praised the Sophomore nine for the wonderful spirit with which they played these games and said that there is some good varsity material on the nine which will be needed in the next few years.

John O'Connor then presented to those who had earned them, the class numerals awarded for the participation in class events.

Dr. Michael then said a few words on the school spirit of the Kingston High School Students. The students enjoyed this speech as was shown by their applause.

Maroon Published.

Thursday the students' interest was centered on the distribution by the Seniors, of the Kingston High School's annual publication of The Maroon. The book this year is dedicated to Miss Kate Walton.

Senior Assembly.

Friday morning the dignified Seniors had charge of the morning assembly.

Taps were sounded by Martin Spiegel and the Senior procession began. In the lead were Victor Johnson, president; Christabel O'Reilly, vice-president; Evelyn Houghtaling, secretary, and Roland Green, treasurer of the Class of '26.

The program was opened by the singing of "Abide With Me" and "The Lord is Great."

The third number was a humorous sketch. It was mainly to show the ignorance of the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior and the dependability of the dignified Senior.

The characters were: Mildred Goldberg, Evelyn Way, Evelyn Houghtaling, Dorothy MacFadden and Christabel O'Reilly.

The Seniors, not to be outdone by the Juniors, also had a Saxophone duet by Burt Davis and Lou Bruhn, who played so well that they were forced to respond to an encore.

The next number was a dancing number by Burt Davis and Natalie DeWitt, both of whom showed considerable skill in the art.

The Senior class members then stood and sang for the last time as a member of the student body, the "Alma Mater."

The faculty advisers of the class, Miss McCullough, Miss Manning and Mr. Culver, were presented with a small token of appreciation of their unitiring efforts in advising the Seniors.

The "Maroon" staff advisers, Miss Noone, Miss Elmendorf, Miss Whiting and Mr. Cocks were also remembered for their part in making the "Maroon" a success.

The Seniors then filed out while the students sang the "Alma Mater."

Report Cards.

Report cards were issued Friday afternoon for the last time this school year.

DeMar Ten-mile Run.

Melrose, Mass., June 12.—Bringing together the greatest field of middle distance runners and incidentally staging another three cornered duel between Johnny Miles of Halifax, Clarence DeMar and Albin Stenroos, Finland's idol, the annual Clarence DeMar ten-mile run was scheduled to be held today on Melrose Athletic Field.

Shin Guards Worn by Yankee Pitchers

In Boston the Yankees saw Paul Zahniser get bumped on the shins and have a bone in his ankle chipped. Then they went to Washington and saw Joe Bush get clipped on the knees with a ball that came back at him with lightning-like speed. So now, whenever the Tank twirlers are pitching in batting practice they wear catchers' shin guards. They think the time is not far off before all pitchers will wear some sort of a shin guard.

RUCKER ONE OF BIG SOUTHPAWS

Lasted More Than 10 Years in National League.

It was in 1907 that Nap Rucker, then young, made his first appearance in big league circles. A very unsophisticated youngster was this southpaw variety of a Georgia Peach when he landed in Brooklyn. It was the first trip north of Mason & Dixon line he ever had taken. He contracted a kink in his neck looking up at the tall buildings of Greater New York, for they were considerably higher than the ones he had been used to gazing at down Alpharetta way.

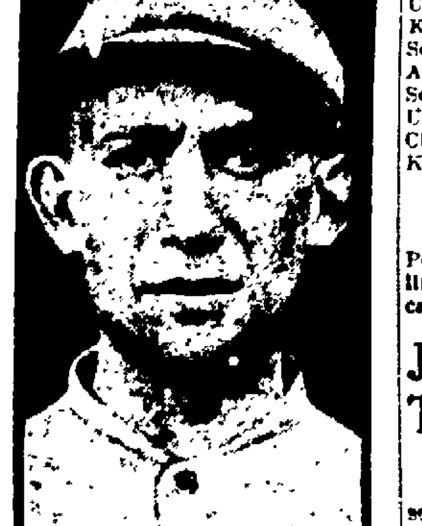

Nap had been a teammate of Ty Cobb's during 1904 and 1905. He never had the pleasure of pitching against the other Peach, consequently never found out by actual test just how hard Ty could hit a ball. Ty, on the other hand, never found out just how well Nap could pitch and what a swell hurler he was. However, both became famous.

Rucker was one of the twelve hurlers of the southpaw brand who survived more than ten years of big league pitching. During his time with the Brooklyn club, the only club he was with, he pitched wonderful ball, but the team during that period was a chronic second division outfit and in only the last two seasons of his career did it move up in the race and in 1916 won a pennant, but Nap was doing his farewell stunt, for that great left arm was all in. It was the honor he had waited long for but came too late, although he pitched two innings in one of the games and did nobly.

September 2, 1908, Rucker pitched one of the greatest no-hit, no-run games ever recorded. Boston failed to make a hit or run and in the nine innings he didn't issue a run or pass or have a pitching error of any kind. To crown this brilliant work he fanned fourteen batsman. His team mates marred the record by making two errors.

July 24, 1909, Rucker equaled the modern day strikeout record when he fanned sixteen of the St. Louis Cardinals in nine innings. To add a little more class to this feat he held the Cards to a pair of singles.

Cities Paid $18,816,000 for Play in Year 1925

American grownups, reputed by their foreign cousins to be chiefly interested in money grabbing, are learning how to play more every year.

In the year book of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, published recently, an expenditure of $18,816,165.55 is shown by cities of the United States and Canada.

Public golf, which five years ago was not important enough to list in the year book, is now played in more than 130 cities. Tennis courts totaled 6,110 in 474 cities in 1925, as against 4,9[illegible] in 430 cities in 1924.

Swimming pools primarily for adult use more than doubled in the last five years and now total 579. Five hundred more quoits courts were reported in 1925 than in 1924. Ball fields, athletic fields, picnic grounds, and skating places also show big increases.

Public recreation was originally a children's movement, but today everywhere east of the Rockies except in North Carolina and Florida practically 50 per cent of the participants in municipal sports and other recreations are adults.

U. & D. Blanks Uni-Slyke, 23-0

Joe Long's Railroaders put on full steam Friday night at the Athletic Field and administered a crushing defeat to Uni-Slyke, the Industrial League leaders, whitewashing them to the tune of 23 to 0.

Black's steam baffled the Combination team, Nichols being the only man that could solve his delivery, nicking him for a double and a single. He allowed three other hits, but they were scattered. He weakened a little in the last inning, walking two men, but a fast double play by Long and Ken Hornbeck pulled him out of a hole. It was the only inning Uni-Slyke had a man as far as third.

U. & D. won the game in the first inning when they scored three runs.

Leskie and D. Hornbeck got a circuit clout apiece and Ken Hornbeck hit a triple. Every man on Long's team got at least one hit and one run.

SIDE-LINERS.

There is nothing much to be said about the game, except that the U. & D. made a few runs.

The U. & D. had a clean score in the error column until Black made a bad throw to Leskie in the last inning. He held the runners on their bases and caught Colvin napping.

Jack Long had a good day with the bat, getting four out of five.

Jess Sweetser Taken to Hospital

New York, June 12.—Jess Sweetser, star golfer who was stricken with bronchitis while returning to this country on the Aquitania after winning the British Amateur Championship, will not play in any championships the rest of the year and may never play in another important match.

Sweetser will be given a thorough examination, including an X-ray study, today at the Lawrence Hospital, where his illness was said to be a combination of grip, influenza and bronchitis. Physicians on the Aquitania said that the champion suffered several hemorrhages on the liner and in England, and intimated that his breakdown resulted in part from the nervous strain of playing in the British classic and the Walker Cup Matches.

Sweetser's friends said he was suffering from a cold when he sailed for England, and that the fog and cold on the golf courses there had further weakened his condition. On the day before the amateur matches began at Muirfield, they said, he collapsed and had to be carried from the course.

Before returning to the United States the American star was treated by physicians in London and on the Aquitania he was placed in the care of the ship's surgeon, Dr. B. Sydney Jones. He was not allowed on deck.

Upon reaching New York, Sweetser's condition was so serious that he was taken off the liner on a coast guard cutter and rushed to the hospital where physicians told him he would have to rest for many months.

Mitchell Won Golf Tourney.

Moor Park, England, June 12.—Abe Mitchell won the Evening Standard's Target Golf Tournament today with a total of 237 points, and will take the major portion of the $1,[illegible] prize money.

All Stars Play Millerton Sunday

Sunday the Kingston All Stars will travel to Millerton to play the Buicks of that town. The last time the clubs met on Decoration Day the All Stars came out winners 1-0 in an extra inning battle.

From reports received from the down river town they have a much faster club than last season.

It is expected that Silvernail, the spit ball artist they have out there, will work against the Kingston boys.

Dewey Van Buren will toss them over for the All Stars and they expect to come back with a win.

Thaw Again in Evelyn'sCompany

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12.—Harry K. Thaw is back in Atlantic City, and again is enjoying the company of his former wife, Evelyn Nesbit.

He escorted her home from Martin's Cabaret on the Boardwalk at daylight today after they had been more or less in each other's company since midnight.

Miss Nesbit is doing a song and dance act at the cafe. She seemed surprised when she came into the cabaret a few minutes before midnight, accompanied by her son, Russell, and found Thaw there with a friend, Morgan Pendleton.

Thaw, in evening clothes, walked over to her with a broad smile, took her hand and squeezed it. He bent toward her as though to kiss her. She laughingly turned her head as she greeted him. Russell said. "Hello, H K."

Later Miss Nesbit sang a number of songs, including, "I Never Knew," "I Love You," and "I'm Nobody's Mama Now."

Thaw hummed the tunes. He seemed to be enjoying himself.

After she concluded her songs, Miss Nesbit would sit at Thaw's table.

It was reported that Thaw and Pendleton would confer with Burton Gaskill, a local attorney, today to discuss the proposed purchase of a house for Miss Nesbit opposite the Atlantic City Country Club.

Thaw will go to Pittsburgh this afternoon to see his mother, who is ill. She celebrates her 86th birthday Monday.

Steal $30,000 from Rural New Yorker

New York, June 12.—Safe crackers today blew open two safes in the offices of the Rural New Yorker, a farm weekly, and escaped with $30,000 in cash and negotiable securities.

Officials of the company, after a preliminary check, declared that securities valued at $25,000 had been overlooked. The bandits took $5,000 in cash, $25,000 in Liberty Bonds and other valuable papers, the police were told.

Henry McCormick, watchman, said the bandits bound him, hands, feet and lips to a chair. They did not gag him, and he knocked a receiver from a telephone and called the police

In their flight the bandits left a third and larger safe unopened.

DIED.

HILL—Richard C. Hill in his seventy-third year, passed away at Pine Hill on Thursday, June 10, 1926. Funeral service held from the late residence on Sunday, June 13, at 2 p. m., standard time. Interment in Pine Hill Cemetery.

In sad and loving memory of our dear father, William E. Cooper, who was killed June 13, 1925:

Sad and sudden was the call.
For our dear father loved by all.
We little thought that on that day
That our dear father would be called away.
The flowers that are upon his grave
May wither and decay
But our love for him
Who sleeps below
Will never fade away.
SON and DAUGHTER.

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, William E. Cooper, who was killed June 13, 1925.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true.
Just a token of affection,
And a heartache still for you.
Just a sigh for olden moments,
Just a smile of love anew,
Just a tear in silence falling,
And a yearning just for you.
WIFE.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of my mother, Catherine Shaefer, who died June 12, 1925.

In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day dear mother,
That I do not think of you.
DAUGHTER.

In loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs Mary Flick, who entered life eternal June 11, 1924.

Discharge Jury In Jones Case

Jury After Nine Hours Fruitless Deliberation Is Discharged in Trial of Judge F. A. Jones for Second Degree Manslaughter.

Woodsville, N. H., June 12.—Unable to reach an agreement in the case of Judge Fred A. Jones, on trial here for second degree manslaughter, the jury was discharged after nearly nine hours fruitless deliberation early today. It was reported the balloting stood nine to three for acquittal.

It was not determined by Attorney General Waldron whether he would press another trial immediately or not.

The case against the judge grew out of an automobile accident last January in which Mrs. Mildred Presley, a passenger, was killed when the car veered from the road and plunged into a brook.

The defense based their hope for acquittal in the story told by Judge Jones that the woman grasped the wheel from his hands, causing the machine to turn abruptly off the highway and leap an embankment into the stream.

In his closing address to the jury, Attorney Robert Upton laid great stress on this claim, insisting she alone was responsible for her death

The prosecution maintained Judge Jones was under the influence of liquor when the fatal accident occurred.

Judge Jones was in the court room when the jury reported, having been summoned from his hotel where he retired at a late hour, after waiting patiently at the court house for a verdict His wife was with him, obviously nervous and near the breaking point.

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

When behaving myself I am rarely reprimanded by policemen, neighbors or newspapers . . . When I am punished I am usually guilty.

In one of the magazines I find an essay by W. J Henderson on music Although I am fond of music and have heard a good deal of it, I had not the remotest notion what Mr. Henderson was writing about on completing his essay . . . I have read books equally dense, notably Thorstein Veblen's "Theory of the Leisure Class." This author labors and groans and uses all sorts of big phrases lamely constructed, and finally does not tell what he believes the theory of the leisure class to be. . . . Which may be fortunate. If his intent is mischievous he has not been able to get his mischief before the public.

In a certain small town there is a memorial hall. It should never have been built, but after the sentimentalists had their way nearly every one insisted that it be so big it is now useless for any purpose. The people wanted it to look like the Grand Opera house in Paris, with the result that it is too large for any use in a small town. It will hold several thousand; the average audience in it probably does not exceed two hundred, and no one can hear. The stage is too large; it cannot be heated. It is merely another monument to foolish American big talk and big feeling.

The most worthless human being I have ever known was a nineteen-year-old girl She was what they call "respectable"; the gossip about her was that she was idle and a burden to her parents. Her folks were poor, and she hated them for it. She could dance, and sing a little, and play the piano a little; but many a time I have known her to sleep until noon the morning her mother did the washing. She also had ambition, ambition to marry a rich man, but married a young fellow as worthless as herself. I don't know what became of her, but I am certain she is still what is called "respectable"; she had sense enough to take care of herself in that way, but lacked sense in every other.

Of the famous outrages we all hear of hourly, I often remark I have never personally known anything like them.

I have no sort of patience with the man who is satisfied with himself, and doesn't try to do better.

Women discount the gallant talk of men, but do not discount it enough.

What is your greatest fault? Mine is that I put off until tomorrow that which I should do today. And I find a very old maxim about this fault; it seems to have been common a long time ago.

Correcting Psychic Evils

Psychic disorders are disturbances of the proper association and organization of the parts or processes of the mind. Corrective work on them consists in mental re-association—in getting back the relation and balance they should have toward one another

Preventive work lies in mental education, in teaching the exercise of reason and self-control, and pointing out the dangers of psychic injury, just as preventive medicine teaches physical hygiene, and the wisdom of diet and bathing.

Doing His Duty

A stranger entered the outer office of a prosperous suite and inquired: "Is the boss in?"

"I will see, sir," said the courteous attendant

Returning, he responded: "Yes, the boss is in about $6C. If you will give me your card I think he would welcome the chance to leave the place."

The Lady and the Limousine

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

THE Braitlings had failed disastrously. Peggy Wright, who acted as social secretary to the fashionable Mrs. Braitling, was stunned by the catastrophe. The Braitlings, prepared for the event, had immediately disappeared, using the ancient flivver that had been their first car—before success had lured them to destruction. The large garage contained half a dozen other cars—all handsome and glittering; these were left behind, but the flivver had carried off the Braitlings, together with clothing and jewels, and two pet dogs.

The big house was full of the tragedy of a broken home. Unpaid servants filing claims and poor Peggy down in the front hall sitting on her trunk with her bag beside her and five dollars in her pocketbook.

"But I haven't money enough to get home, Mr. Lee," she said to the sheriff when he told her that the house must be cleared by noon. The servants had gone grumblingly away, helping one another with luggage. Just then the expressman came for Peggy's trunk, which she sent home "collect."

"I could—it has been done and I can do it—" she said to herself. "I'll just walk home. My bag is light—the weather cool, and I'll drop a card to mother so that she will not worry—I shall tell her that I am touring!" After the postcard had been dispatched, Peggy ate dinner at the village hotel and later started walking.

"It's only a hundred miles," she told herself as she tramped sturdily on.

Peggy ate her supper among the trees under a clouding sky, and she had barely started to resume her walk when the first raindrop fell. She turned hastily into an old wood-road to get under shelter, and then she saw the beautiful blue limousine thrust partly into the underbrush.

Convincing herself that the big car was abandoned, Peggy thought of it as a desirable shelter during the rain and made her way in.

Rain pounded on the roof and the trees thrashed in the heavy wind that was rising.

When it grew dark Peggy pressed a button and the interior was softly illuminated. "This is like a fairy story," she laughed. She saw that the car was richly upholstered in sapphire blue velvet; the fittings were silver. Blue leather cases and pockets promised further luxuries. A newspaper was tossed on the seat beside her. Peggy pulled down all the silken shades at the windows and wished miserably for something to eat. It was then that she discovered that her feet rested on a lunch hamper that had been placed inside for protection in case of rain. The flat hamper, perfectly equipped, gave up a modest amount of food—a dozen sandwiches, fruit and a vacuum bottle of hot coffee.

Poor, famished Peggy ate greedily.

"A man's lunch," yawned Peggy as she put the things tidily away and closed the hamper. Then she rolled her topcoat into a pillow and snuggled into the deeply cushioned seat. Peggy slept while the wind and rain droned a lullaby around her snug retreat. Daylight came, and with it two men, who lifted and pulled, assisted by a rope attached to the rear. At the final bump, which landed them in the road, Peggy woke up rubbing her eyes.

The door opened suddenly and a big, pleasant voice startled her. "Well, my lad, what are you doing here?"

Miss Wright slipped into her topcoat and brushed back her rumpled hair. In a few words she explained the predicament, frankly telling of her plight. "I've had a splendid rest, and I'm going on my way now," she said after she had thanked him, and heard his explanation of how he was giving his mother a new limousine, and was driving the car home himself. He had blundered into the country road and a recklessly driven motor truck had bumped him from the rear and shoved the new car across the ditch. The gears were stripped and there was other damage that needed an expert mechanician. So Mr. Thomas Peabody had locked up the car and tramped miles to find a garage. By the time he discovered one the storm was raging and, as he had pushed the limousine into the bushes before he left it, he went to the hotel and slept. Now they were en route to the garage for repairs, when he would resume the trip to Camden.

"Camden? Why, I live in Philadelphia," exclaimed Peggy, then she blushed with embarrassment.

"If you don't mind waiting for repairs, it will be a lark for you to ride part of the way," tempted Mr. Peabody, "say, as far as Camden." They argued it out at the breakfast table in the hotel, and, later, Peggy Wright rode in affluent comfort in the velvet-lined car. Before the car reached Camden she was sitting beside Thomas on the front seat and they were chatting like old friends.

"Your mother will be delighted with this car," said Peggy as they parted.

"She is not to have this particular one after all," declared Mr. Peabody. "I will get another one for her, but this one I'll save for my wife—when I get one." There was an odd, shy look in Thomas Peabody's eyes, and he looked so hard at Peggy that she blushed and ran away.

But it is a fact that the bliss car carried them on their honeymoon.

The Great Driving Force

Fear of what the neighbors will say governs not only many of our actions but it also determines the style of our clothes and even the architecture of our houses.—Hartford Times.

Kingston Does Want Hospital Protection

THE half-way mark is passed in the $300,000 campaign for the City of Kingston Hospital. The campaign closes Tuesday night. About $145,000 must still be raised.

Part of that amount will come from our neighbors out in the county, who have already brought in $30,000. Part of it will be made up by subscriptions of industrial and other business concerns, many of whose contributions have not yet been received. Part of it will come in the form of memorial subscriptions of $1,200 and over, of which twenty-two have already been received and announced. But the greater part of it can come only in the form of many hundreds of substantial subscriptions from the men and women of Kingston.

Up to and including the last rally, 1,879 subscriptions had been received from Kingston people, and as the amount raised in Kingston to date is $125,000, the average local subscription to date is $66.52. This is not a little drive for maintenance—it is a large campaign for essential building purposes. Most persons are giving accordingly, as the average shows.

Some of course cannot give more than a few dollars, or perhaps only one dollar—their gifts are just as welcome as the large ones. But most of us can easily afford, without sacrifice, to pledge $30, which means only five dollars each six months; or $60, which is ten dollars each six months; or more, through the six-installment plan.

If you are not among the nearly two thousand citizens who have done their share for their own hospital, consider this:

Do you believe in letting others bear your share in civic projects or do you like to do your part?

Do you realize that you or any member of your family may be in vital need of the hospital any day.

Do you know that this hospital is a public-service institution and that no one can or does make a dollar of profit out of it?

Do you know that it was not built and is not supported by City, County or State, and cannot be enlarged and improved except by public generosity?

Do you know that this hospital is and has been and will remain jammed to the doors, utterly unable to take care of all who need its care?

If you will ask yourself these questions frankly, the committee feels that when you are asked to subscribe you will answer, "Yes, I'll do my share."

Three hundred thousand dollars is the actual, conservative, minimum amount needed. It must and will be raised. More than three hundred local workers, and nearly two hundred others in neighboring communities, are bending every energy toward raising the entire sum. They are doing their share, by working and by giving. All they ask is that each citizen does his or her share.

Thursday, June 10, 1926. Miss Hester Schumaker of Jersey City, formerly of Kingston, and Cecil Becker of this city were united in marriage at the rectory of St. John's Church, Wall street, by the Rev. Edward W. H Knapp The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. John Kuehn, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. Mr. Becker holds a responsible position with Schwenk's Bakery, Foxhall avenue, this city. The couple left by motor for an extended trip South, amid the well wishes of their relatives and friends

Dewitt Garden Tea.

A delightful garden tea for the benefit of a mission in Jamaica, B. W. I., was given by Mrs E. H. Tisdale at her home on Pearl street on Friday afternoon The affair was in the nature of a garden fete, and the garden itself with its sparkling fountain and picturesque pergola and its masses of exquisite colored iris of every possible shade, velvety pansies, tall sprays of valerian and occasional bursts of scarlet poppies or deeper red peonies was a picture. When the guests in the colorful attire of today arrived it was like adding flowers to flowers. Music came softly to the strollers among the flower beds, from the house where two violins and piano offered a musical treat. In the pergola a fascinating fortune teller was more than ordinarily attractive. During the afternoon delicious refreshments were served and there were pretty and useful articles for sale, baskets of all sorts and sizes from the West Indies forming one of the chief attractions. Though there was no set program the many guests were entertained by a reading by Miss Bernadette Walker and another feature of interest was the announcement that little seven year old David Rice, grandson of Senator Rice, won the party prize of a lot of land at the corner of First avenue and Delaware avenue. A generous sum will realized for St. Luke's Hospital, and

Mail Pilot Crashes

The wreckage of Elmer Patridge's plane near Minneapolis. The veteran flyer met death when his machine was dashed to earth during a heavy windstorm. He was making the first air mail flight between the Twin Cities and Chicago. Five other pilots hopped off during the storm, loaded with mail, but one succeeded in reaching his destination.

Hudson Valley Berries in Market

Hudson river valley strawberries appeared on the local wholesale market this week the first time this season, according to the New York city office of the State Department of Farms and Markets. The fruit found a ready sale as in general it was fairly good in both quality and condition. The lower river consignments realized from 20 to 25 cents per quart, whereas the shipments from the upper river districts commanded 25 to 27 cents. One year ago, however, strawberries from the lower Hudson valley sold at 25 to 40 cents per quart, while upper river offerings brought 30 to 45 cents.

New York city's carlot receipts of strawberries last season amounted to 2,424 cars, of which this state contributed only 167. These figures, however, do not include the large quantities brought to market by motor trucks.

New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland were the chief contributors of New York city's supply of strawberries on Friday. Fancy, large highly colored fruit sold well at 20 to 25 cents per quart while ordinary, small and pale offerings jobbed out slowly at 10 to 15 cents.

During the week ending June 5, the strawberry shipping states of the country moved to various consuming centers, 2,451 cars of strawberries as against 1,852 the preceding week and 670 the corresponding week last season.

Increases were noted for Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, while decreases prevailed in Alabama, Arkansas, Indiana, Louisiana, New Jersey, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Nothing ever was transmitted more perfectly on radio than was the Sundial Serenaders and the Bonnie Laddies from WJZ early last evening. There was a total absence of static or other interference and very little blooping. Is it possible the bloopers have reformed, or are they out automobiling? Probably the latter, for the true blooper never learns.

"And so is Your Old Lady" sung by the Record Boys Thursday night, may become as popular as those other classics, "Down by the Winegar Woiks" and "My Lula Lou." Its sentiment is fully as refined and tender.

If you couldn't get the prize fight Thursday evening from WMSG there was something the matter with your set or you do not know how to operate it.

WGY was extraordinarily clear and loud, especially the Company G band concert from Oneonta.

WDBZ tomorrow at 11 a. m.

WEAM, North Plainfield, N. J., 250 Watts, was one of the clear and loud stations last night.

Allentown, Pa., is on the map. Its station, WCBA, rated at 15 watts, played "Horses" almost as good as WJZ does. Maybe WCBA has increased its power recently.

The west has not yet gone into summer hibernation as WLS proved last night with "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and other things, and WJJD coming through clearly. WQJ and KYW were also heard.

To See by Radio This Year

Within a few weeks vision by radio will be an accomplished fact. So Edmond Belin, who invented the method of sending drawing by telegraph, tells us. Before the end of 1926, says Belin, an orator speaking into a microphone will have both his voice and his image transmitted simultaneously all over the globe. . . . The time is coming when you can see the person you are talking to over the telephone, or the one who calls you up, and it won't be necessary to say "Whozit?"—Capper's Weekly.

White Kasha Cloth Has Embroidery Trimming

Here a prominent "movie" star is seen in a white kasha cloth coat, trimmed with embroidery in brown and gold. The collar is of red fox fur. This coat is one of the advance styles for summer wear. A small embroidered hat of felt and a tapestry bag complete the beautiful outfit.

Shorter Skirts, Full Sleeves, Paris Mode

Shortened skirts and lengthened sleeves marked the new fashions in women's dresses displayed at the grand opening of the Longchamps track for the flat racing season. Dressmakers evidently had decided that whatever cloth was saved in the skirts should be used up in the rest of the frocks, and the arms of the modishly gowned women were completely hidden under elaborate sleeves. Legs were as visible as arms were hidden. The bare arm appears to be doomed. Smart smoking jackets for women were another feature of the fashion show. Some dressmakers even abandoned the heavier cloths as a material for this garment, using lace, kasha and crepe de chine in jackets modeled along real masculine lines.

Shoes Make or Mar Feet; Use Care in Selection

Shoes can make or mar feet in many ways. A short fat foot and heavy ankles incased in a short-vamped shoe will look not unlike a horse's hoof, but a long narrow last on the same foot will give a pleasanter effect. The center strap of a slipper extending from the vamp to an ankle strap cuts the apparent width of a plump foot.

A heavy woman should never wear high heels nor those with a narrow heel base; in fact that type of shoe is becoming to very few feet. Shoes are becoming or otherwise to a foot just as a hat is to the figure or face. Medium heels of a fair width and a long last will look best on the woman with large ankles.

Prints for Spring

The flair of fabrics for prints is very significant in forecasting the styles for this spring. If printed materials foretell anything it is the simplicity of dresses, both one and two-piece styles. With printed fabrics very little if any trimming, save lace flounces with georgette or chiffon, is ever permissible; in place of trimming, scarf ends, panels, ties, flounces, apron fronts, plaits and draperies, made of the dress-fabric in the same pattern or a plain color, are all that is necessary.

Straight Lines Return

It is quite evident that straight lines have returned, but at the same time a graceful effect of movement is obtained by clever disposition of fullness in various ways. Plaits are probably the most common method of acquiring fullness without disturbing the straight silhouette, and in many frocks one sees the very fine pressed-in plaiting which French designers love and do so well.

Under the Coat

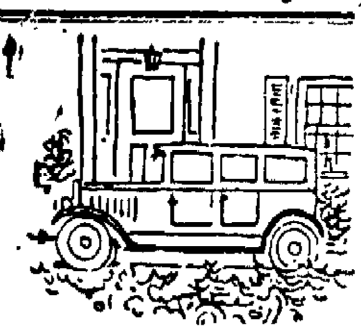

An afternoon coat is an essential this winter. What to wear under it is the question. Many designers are showing skirts of crepe satin with tunics of white or light colored silks. Still others have turned to the Scotch moors for inspiration and have designed skirts of tartan with bodices of plain material of the same tone which appears in the plaids.

Spring Shades in Hosiery

Stockings promise to follow closely the tints which have been selected for the spring frocks. Even now while the nude shades still predominate, there are indications of the pastel tones. The manufacturers are turning out lilac, coral, mauve, chartreuse and the rose shades in anticipation of the spring demand.

Location of Airports

A report published by the air service on March 1, 1924, shows there are 2,850 airports located in 48 states and the District of Columbia. Eighty of these airports, located in the larger cities, range in size from two acres in Seattle to 1,000 acres in Cleveland. The average distance from the center of the city is 4.6 miles, except that those rated as A1 fields are generally from four to fifteen miles from the downtown district, which distance is probably due to the excessive cost of securing adequate space in the central business district.

Of the eighty airports, forty-one are municipally controlled, one privately controlled, thirty-two controlled by commercial corporations, one jointly by the municipality and private interests and four by the municipality and commercial organizations. There are railroad facilities to fifteen, rapid transit or street cars leading to nine and busses to one.—Charles Whitnall, secretary of public land commissioners, Milwaukee, in the National Municipal Review.

Filing Glass

Glass may be filed with comparative ease if the work is done under water. This insures that the file will not become dull so rapidly.

Failure Accounted For

Man's failure in this world may often be attributed to the fact that he used blank cartridges when firing at the target of success.

Odd Indian Custom

Among the Arhuaco Indians, a tribe inhabiting one of the mountain fastnesses in Colombia, it is the custom for a man to reside in a house by himself after marriage, while his wife lives alone in a neighboring house; they eat together outside the door of the wife's house.

Suzanne Wins Another Victory

Mary K. Browne Puts Up Hard Fight Against Suzanne Lenglen In International Hard Courts Tourney But Is Beaten 6-1, 6-0.

Paris, June 12.—Suzanne, the indomitable, hung up another victory today.

The flashing French star, playing in a heavy rain under most unfavorable conditions, defeated Miss Mary K. Browne, of California, in the finals of the International Hard Courts Championship, 6-1, 6-0.

The American girl made a game fight but was clearly outclassed.

"It wasn't the wet court or the heavy ball that did it," said Miss Browne, as she shook the hand of Mlle. Lenglen across the nets at the end of the match.

"She was just too good for me, that is the only explanation I have to offer," she added as she turned to the reporters who had grouped about.

Miss Browne's explanation of Suzanne's victory is the only one that it is possible to offer. The French girl was far superior to her opponent, and even though she had to hold herself in due to the heavy, wet courts, there was no denying that she was quicker to think and quicker to act than Miss Browne, who made a gallant effort but to no avail against the clever strategy and the perfect placements of Suzanne.

Once or twice during the match it appeared that Miss Browne might secure advantage with her drop cut-shots over the net, but Suzanne shifted her tactics and again resorted to placements which sent Miss Browne running into the back-courts only tod be drawn to the net and then the French girl's drives went whizzing past her for points.

The sun, which had absented itself during most of the match, came out and smiled on the French victory.

Though Miss Browne succeeded in taking but one game from Suzanne, it was the concensus in the press box that the American was the victim of a bad decision in the third game of the second set, when the umpire credited the French girl with a game.

Earlier in the match Miss Browne had displayed a fine sporting trait when she herself protested a decision against Mlle. Lenglen and refused to take the point which the linesman had awarded to her.

Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen Win

Moor Park, England, June 12.—Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen today defeated Cyril Tolley and Abe Mitchell, four up and two to go in an eighteen hole professional and amateur match.

Both Hagen and Jones were playing superior golf and their teamwork was excellent.

While Mitchell was carrying most of the lead for the English team, the Americans were playing perfectly together and their drives and approaches were excellent, as was evidenced by a fine parade of threes.

The cards:

Jones-Hagen, out—
3-4-3-3-3-4-4-3-5—32
Tolley-Mitchell, out—
4-4-3-4-4-5-4-4-4—36

The English pair tightened their game in the second nine, but the Americans left no gates open for them.

The homeward cards follow:
Jones-Hagen, in .. 3-4-3-4-5-4-4—27
Tolley-Mitchell, in 3-4-3-4-4-4-5—27

Grooms Mules With Vacuum

Capt. A. C. Fitzhugh, Third Field artillery, Fort Benjamin Harrison, has invented a vacuum cleaner which does the work of grooming the army horses and mules. The machine is constructed after the general fashion of vacuum cleaners, but has certain features especially adapted to cleaning animals. The nozzle is equipped with a brush of special make, with which the backs of the animals are massaged in a manner similar to that followed with the old grooming brush.

The animals do not object to the use of the machine.

Winne, Dr. and Mrs. William Kemble, Dr. and Mrs. W. J Smith, Mr and Mrs. Carl Preston, Mr. and Mrs Edward Elmendorf, Mr. and Mrs Pfromer, Mrs. Zadoc P. Boice.

St. Joseph's School Made Big Gain

The sixth grade pupils of St. Joseph's School this year averaged 85.16 per cent as against 80.23 per cent of last year in the American Legion Flag Code contest, and as a result are rated twelfth instead of thirteenth, as previously announced in the standings of the schools taking part in the contest this year. The error occurred in compiling the table furnished to The Freeman and published on Thursday.

Democracy Shaped by Forest and Frontier?

The appeal of the undiscovered is strong in America. For three centuries the fundamental process in its history was the westward movement, the discovery and occupation of the vast free spaces of the continent. We are the first generation of Americans who can look back upon that era as a historic movement now coming to its end. Other generations have been so much a part of it that they could hardly comprehend its significance. To them it seemed inevitable. The free land and the natural resources seemed practically inexhaustible. Nor were they aware of the fact that their most fundamental traits, their institutions, even their ideals were shaped by this interaction between the wilderness and themselves.

American democracy was born of no theorist's dream; it was not carried in the Sarah Constant to Virginia, nor in the Mayflower to Plymouth. It came out of the American forest, and it gained new strength each time it touched a new frontier. Not the Constitution, but free land and an abundance of natural resources open to a fit people, made the democratic type of society in America for three centuries while it occupied its empire.—Frederick Jackson Turner in "The Frontier in American History."

Research Has Shown Body's Danger Points

Which is the weakest external part of the human body? Some people would say the solar plexus; others, the region of the heart. Scientists are inquiring into this little known subject, and already some important conclusions have been reached.

It has been found that the Adam's apple is man's most vulnerable external part. A slight blow is likely to affect it so seriously that permanent injury may result, the victim's breathing and swallowing being impaired. Even pressure by a thumb at this point can have injurious results. A hard blow may cause death.

One of the chief discoveries made in the course of this particular research is that the Japanese art of Jiu-Jitsu is based on expert knowledge of these danger points. For example, a blow with the edge of the hand above the temples or the ears may fracture the skull or cause concussion of the brain. Sudden pressure behind the ears is temporarily crippling in its effect. Blows on the nape of the neck are dangerous. Other points specially sensitive to pain and injury are the upper lip and the abdomen.

The Only Way

"On private business," said Charles to the office boy, as he handed in his card.

With a quaking heart Charles was ushered into the office of the successful man. Desperately he commented on the weather and other matters; then, realizing that his visit must soon draw to a close, he blurted out his business.

"Want to marry my daughter?" echoed the other, in amazement.

"Yes," managed Charles, swallowing a lump in his throat.

"But, my dear fellow, do you realize what it means? My daughter is accustomed to have whatever she wishes so far no money can procure it. You'd never support her."

Charles looked blank, and fingered the brim of his cane agitatedly.

"Couldn't"—he gulped—"couldn't we elope together?"

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 12.—The forward movement in industrial stocks gained further momentum in the short session of the market today. Standard industrial stocks which provided the strong leadership for the market in the previous sessions of the week moved up to higher price levels under strong and active buying. General Motors advancing a point in the first half hour, Woolworth 3¼ and Pan American Petroleum 1¼.

Railroad stocks reached a slightly higher range of prices today, under the lead of New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio, the former selling above 131. Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and Atchison commanded higher prices.

Buying demand was urgent for United States Steel, General Motors, the mercantile stocks, the low-priced motors and a few of the oils. Atlantic Refining at 120 represented a recovery of five points from the low of the week; Texas Company spurted to 54½, Pan American B sold up about 1½, while Pan Handle Producing continued its spectacular rise to 23¾, up three points for the day and nearly 20 points from its low of 4½.

American Woolen common and preferred staged a brisk rally, the common selling up 2½ points at 22⅞ and the preferred up three. Allied Chemical, American Can and Dupont made a strong and active trio and reached the highest prices on the movement in unusually active trading Baldwin sold at 110¼ for a new high on the movement.

General Motors and United States Steel continued to lead the market into higher price levels in the final period. Bullish demonstrations were also staged in a number of the railroad, oil and specialty stocks and the market closed strong in all departments.

Strength and activity of the railroad bonds was the feature of the listed bond market today. Liberty bonds and foreign government issues were inactive but steady, French 7½s selling at 97⅛, Japanese 4c at 88¼; Rhine Westphalian 7s at 98. Liberty third 4¼s sold at 101.13 and Liberty fourth 4¼s at 104.7.

Brooklyn Union Gas 5s led the advance in the utility stocks and sold at a new high at 146. Dodge Brothers 6s were in demand at 94¼ and International Tel. & Tel. 5s at 109¼.

Boarding House at Maple Hill Burns

Fire which started about 5 o'clock this morning destroyed a two-story house owned by Mrs. Hilda Myer at Maple Hill, town of Rosendale, along the state highway. It was quite a large house where summer-boarders were entertained. An addition had recently been built and modern improvements installed. The building with contents were a total loss. Mrs. Myers was in the barn when the fire broke out. It is thought it started from the newly made kitchen fire.
